POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Big Battle Coming on Bill To Boost Governor's Power

A big battle will be waged in the Legislature over a reform bill authored by Senator Michael J. Galvin of Newton which would give a Governor enormously increased power in appointing top State officials.

A new Governor would not be forced to work with hold-over department heads appointed in a previous administration unless he chose to do so if Galvin's measure is enacted into law.

Not only would an incoming Governor be able to fill all key positions in the State government with persons of his own choosing as soon as he assumed office, but he also could remove most high officials without cause and without consulting anybody under Galvin's plan.

Galvin's proposal would give a Governor virtually the same control over the State government that President Kennedy exercises over federal departments, agencies and bureaus.

Newton Plans Gala But Safe Fourth; Without Fireworks

Newton will observe a gala but safe and sane Fourth of July, with festivities and contests, but no fireworks will light up the sky over any part of the city.

As a result of an experience two years ago, when children were injured by unexploded fireworks the day after the Fourth, a policy has been adopted of banning fireworks displays in Newton.

Another consideration which prompted this recommendation by police and fire officials was that another safety hazard was created when the city's streets were clogged by the automobiles of outsiders who came into Newton to see the fireworks show.

Those Newtonites who desire to view a spectacular display may do so by going to Memorial Park in nearby Needham or to one of the other neighboring communities where fireworks will light up the summer sky on the night of the Fourth.

In Needham the fireworks display will start at 9:45 p.m. Those who decide to witness it should prepare themselves for a terrific traffic jam.

The Newton Centre Playground will be the scene of Newton's big Independence Day program, and children in all sections of the city are invited to participate in it.

Festivities there will be conducted under the direction of the Newton Centre Improvement Association.

start at 9 o'clock on the morning of the Fourth, with the traditional flag-raising and the singing of the National anthem on the nation's birthday.

Then there will be fun galore for the youngsters.

Scheduled events include a doll carriage parade, a baby beauty contest and a pet show, with prizes for the winners.

Some of Newton's best looking babies and best mannered pets, including dogs, cats and assorted animals, birds and probably turtles, will vie for the awards.

A good time should be had by all — except the judges who must pick the winners.

Among the other holiday features will be a decorated bicycle contest, a three-legged race, a potato race and other races.

At 10:30 a.m. a plaque will be presented to the Association's choice for "Man of the Year."

A blanket invitation to all Newton children to join in the fun, was issued by the Newton Centre Improvement Association.

"The more kids we have, the better we'll like it," was the way the committee members put it.

Free ice cream will be distributed to all youngsters who show up at the Newton Centre Playground.

A festive program will be held at the playground on the holiday evening starting at 8 p.m.

A concert will be presented by a crack army band, with Barber Shop Quartet selections by the Calorics Counts and the Microtonics.

Cleo F. Jalliet will be in charge of the morning activities for the Newton Centre Improvement Association. He will be assisted by Edward B. Scott H. Wells.

Walter J. Kreske, William L. Lynch, Walter Feinberg and Bruce and Albert Rochette will be in charge of the evening events.

Minor Breaks Reported Here Over Week-end

There were a number of breaks, none of them involving heavy losses, and one minor theft, according to reports to the police here over the weekend.

Petty thieves struck twice as the weekend began and netted themselves a total of $27. Proceeds from an afternoon break Friday in the home of Katrina Graverson, 46 Exeter street, West Newton, were 12 silver dollars.

Newton Finalists In Upset Victory

Little Miss Hannabeth Jackson, of Newton Highlands, scored an upset win over Nancy Mabrey, of Boston, to emerge the winner 6-1, 6-2, in the Girls 14-Year-and-Under Division of the Sidney Hill Junior Open Championships held last week. Newton's Bruce Brody scored another upset in the 12-and-Under boys' singles.

The Newton lass took the measure of the top-placed Miss Mabrey in decisive fashion for a major upset.

She played a very steady match, being sure of every point and only put the ball away when she felt that she had the decided advantage.

Miss Jackson's win was not too surprising to tourney on-lookers, but it was felt that the scores were overwhelming. Nancy Mabrey has always been a tough competitor, according to tennis experts, and usually wins or reaches the finals of all her New England events.

Sidney Hill Country Club professional, Bill Hoblitzell, was the referee. Tournament director was George Adams.

Four of the 13 matches in the Boys Singles, 12-Years-and-Under, went into three matches. Bruce Brody, West Newton, defeated Jerry Colton of Waban in the finals, 4-6.

Treated at Newton-Wellesley Hospital for cuts and bruises were Stephen Brass, 14, of 55 Drumlin road, and Michael Turner, 14, of 465 Parker street, both Newton Centre. The police report said that Michael was riding on the crossbar of Stephen's bike, which was knocked over by a car going in the same direction on Parker street, as the boys were making a left turn. ## Little League Lines

The Orioles copped the championship in the Newton West Little League last Sunday by beating the White Sox 5-4. The feat was accomplished without making a hit, all the scoring coming in the fifth inning on a half-dozen walks, an error and a fielder's choice.

The White Sox had their best inning in the second, when three runs were scored on singles by Tom Chalmers and Bill Gorgone and a Pete McQuiston double. The latter had three for three at bat.

Newton South's selections for its all-star team were announced as follows: Robbin Marvin, Alan Gans, John Poutas, Scott Yardum, Dick Tarranto, Ron Arcese, Tom Keyes, Jim Gamble, Barry Cain, Steve Brown, Jack Monahan, Andy Berezin, Dick Hirschfeld and Pete Jagulli.

Alternates, Jim Freeman, Roger Wyner, John Lopez, Gardner Rowbotham and Dave Newhaus. A Cardinals-Dodgers game in the Newton North League was a tight one, the Cardinals winning it 5-4. It went into overtime, Steve Paoletti, who performed exceptionally well on the mound, was credited with the win.

There was another close one in the West League, with the Orioles beating the Red Sox, 5-4. A single with the bases full in the sixth by Dick Carlisle was the decider. The win gave the Orioles the second-half championship.

The Newton North Indians handed the Dodgers a 7-0 beating in a game last week on Albemarle Playground. Features of the win were Bob Crowdle's three-hit shutout and a homer and double by Charlie Gilley that accounted for four runs.

Rogell, 31 Devon Rd., Newton Centre, had received his bachelor of arts degree cum laude at Harvard College in June of this year.

He completed his requirements for the degree in June 1962. He is a graduate of Newton High School, Class of 1959, and was admitted to Harvard College as a sophomore.

According to the information given in this newspaper, he intends to enter Harvard Medical School in September.

Regular Tests For TB Advised

The importance of periodic tuberculin tests and X-rays is stressed in a bulletin from the Newton Tuberculosis and Health Association, an organization that gets its only support from the Christmas Seal Campaign.

TB is no longer the "disease of youth," a term used frequently in the 19th century, the association points out, and states that the chance for the infection's turning up today in the 45-64 age group is 2 1/2 times greater than in the group 15-24. And, in the elderly bracket, persons 65 or more, the rate of active TB is three times higher than in the more youthful group.

Newton Summer Theatre Plans Second Comedy

"The Chalk Garden," a mystery comedy by Enid Bagnold, will be the second production of the Newton Summer Theatre, greater Boston's newest playhouse, on Wednesday, July 10, through Saturday, July 13.

The Newton Summer Theatre will be changing pace with its second show. After winning favorable notices on its opener, Shaw's "Arms and the Man," a classical comedy, the resident professional company will be out to prove its versatility with a play that promises to become a modern classic.

What happens to a family of women dominated by a strong matriarch when a woman with a mysterious past comes to work as a governess, is told in a comic and poignant way. Miss Bagnold's brilliance is shown in dialogue that sparkles and shimmers, and which delights the ear as well as the intellect. "The Chalk Garden" is a play which uses comedy to underline the basic issues of life and death. It had its initial tryout in Boston back in 1955, before winning critical acclaim in New York.

Audiences have found the Newton Summer Theatre country setting a cool and comfortable place to spend a summer evening.

Opening night curtain is at 8 p.m.; all other nights, 8:30 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling DE 2-6700.

Auburndale Nine Betters Record

Auburndale Town Team beat the Hosmer Chiefs of Medford 3-1 in a Suburban Two League game last week at Playstead Park. Howie Whittemore's good four-hitter pitched helped, as did a home run and a single by Marty Ryan, shortstop. Telling hits also came from the bats of T. Ryan and catcher Wolfe.

Auburndale passed the .500 mark as a result of the victory.

In another game at Allison Park, Howie Hathaway pitched Auburndale to a 1-0 win over the Boys Club nine. His two-hit performance plus the bats of Chuck Seymour, Peter Stoner and Kenny Bagley did the trick, despite good pitching for the losers by Ken O'Connell, who fanned 13 and allowed only four hits.

The Auburndale club split a doubleheader with the Liberty Tornadoes of East Boston Sunday afternoon on the home grounds. Tornadoes won the first game 4-3, Auburndale bounced back to win the second 17-7.

A Safe And Sane 'Fourth'

Another Fourth of July is upon us. For many people it will stretch into a four-day holiday weekend, with the opening festivities getting underway the Night Before.

What old-timers can recall as the "Fourth with a slam-bang, star-spangled salute to the nation's birthday," is today's "safe and sane" variety. "Safe and sane" everywhere except on the roads and highways.

Today's youngsters are carefully guarded against firecrackers and fireworks, either set off by them or by professionals in a public display. But the kids are taken out in the family car and are hurled along at tremendous speeds, flirting with death and injury on traffic-glutted high-speed roads. No bombs bursting in air, but many roaring automobiles crashing, careening, and burning in the usual "safe and sane" highway variety of holiday fun.

The largest volume of traffic in Bay State history is expected to roll over the streets, roads, highways and expressways during this week-end, according to Registrar of Motor Vehicles James R. Lawton.

In a brave attempt to keep most of these motorists alive, some 10,000 State Police, MDC Police, Registry Inspectors, Civil Defense and City and Town Departments will patrol the roads. This is not a move to deprive anybody of holiday fun; it is an all-out war on the careless, the heedless, the drunk driver, the speed-kings whether they are our local Massachusetts product or are visiting here for a holiday sojourn.

This year in an unusual maneuver, Governor Peabody will ride with Registrar Lawton through certain sections of the State to personally inspect and supervise the safety operations of the state and local enforcement forces.

Registrar Lawton also emphasized that he hoped all drivers would check their vehicles before starting out on trips. "Tires with good treads, firm brakes and proper steering," said, "can be equally as important as the safe driving habits of the motorists."

Unfortunately, too many motorists are inclined to cut corners and scrimp foolishly where the proper maintenance and operation of their cars is concerned. A penny saved in this instance often could mean loss of a life or lives.

Registrar Lawton stresses the fact that the program for safety this holiday season is both one of law enforcement and public information. The law enforcement personnel will sacrifice their holidays in order to patrol the highways to save lives.

The public certainly has been informed of the need for caution, courtesy and care in driving by the information media, press, radio and television.

The matter now rests in the hands which grip the wheels of those millions of vehicles ready and waiting to take to the road this weekend. Public co-operation is the final solution. The contribution of each individual citizen is of vital importance.

Norumbega Park Fun A Pleasant Memory

Editor, The Graphic
After reading in The Graphic about the proposed changes at Norumbega Park, I wonder how many old timers in Newton and vicinity remember when they packed a lunch, hopped on one of the open trolley cars that ran in the summer time, and the conductor pulled down the bar that kept them from falling out, and collected a nickel or dime fare (I forget which), then headed for Norumbega Park.

There were the animals to see, even ragged buffaloes, then the Swiss Chalet, where one put a penny in a machine, turned a handle, and saw the first moving pictures. There was also a sort of hollow place where colored lights were played over a fountain. Then there was a rustic theater with a company of colored players who did the cake walk. There was also a merry-go-round and something called "The Caterpillar".

Well, those days are gone forever.

It probably is the most sweeping reform bill which has been placed before the Legislature this year as far as permitting the reorganization of the State government is concerned. It also would strip the Executive Council of much of its existing authority.

While the ultimate fate of Galvin's measure is still far from certain, there appears to be at least a fair chance that it will win approval of the two branches of the Legislature. This may depend partly on whether Governor Peabody makes an all-out drive for its passage.

However, an amendment has been attached to the bill by a legislative committee providing that the suggested new law would not become effective until Jan. 1, 1967. Galvin will wage a fight to have that provision removed.

The time-delaying amendment does seem somewhat ridiculous. If Galvin's bill is a good one, it should be adopted and put into effect immediately. If it is a bad bill, it should be rejected.

Any argument that Galvin's plan is sound but that it should be placed on ice for three and a half years is nonsensical double-talk.

But many legislators will support the move for a long delay in making the proposal law operative because they are fearful that department heads with whom they are friendly might be eased out of their jobs if Governor Peabody were vested with the powers Galvin's bill would give him.

Some law-makers are genuinely concerned with whether Galvin's measure would grant a Governor too much power.

They point out that it would not be necessary for a Governor to obtain the approval of the Executive Council on many appointments to important positions and that he could fire key officials on a whim with the stroke of a pen, including those he himself selected.

Galvin sums up the issue by answering that Massachusetts now has a weak Governor from the standpoint of appointive power and that his bill would give the State a strong Governor.

He says that his measure would make a Governor politically responsible to the people for the conduct and operation of every department in the State government.

As matters presently stand, Galvin points out, a Governor may be forced to work throughout his entire administration with the head of a critical department whose policy ideas differ from his own.

The studious, serious-minded Galvin, who served as Under-Secretary of Labor when the late Maurice J. Tobin was a member of the Truman cabinet, has patterned his plan after the Federal system.

He asserts that Massachusetts would have "90 per cent Governors instead of 20 per cent Governors" if his proposal is adopted.

Galvin's bill, incidentally, would not make the terms of top State officials co-terminus with those of the Governor. He feels it would not be efficient procedure for a Governor to be obliged to fill all the major posts in the State government on the day he assumes office.

Whether a majority of the members of the Legislature are prepared to give a Governor the great appointive power remains to be determined.

Beacon Hill observers also will be watching to see the extent to which Governor Peabody fights for the enactment of Galvin's bill.

With the tremendous power would go vastly increased responsibility.

Peabody—if Galvin's measure became law—would be confronted with the decision of whether to retain or replace men such as State Public Works Commissioner Jack P. Ricciardi, Metropolitan District Commission Chairman Robert F. Murphy and Turnpike Authority Chairman William F. Callahan.

The likelihood is that he would retain all three of them. In so doing, however, he would become responsible to the people for the operation of those agencies.

Whatever happens on Galvin's bill — whether it is approved, defeated or adopted with an amendment making it effective in 1967—the Newton Senator has confronted the Legislature with one of the big issues of the year.

A former Massachusetts Congressman has been playing a prominent part in the fight over the Philippine War Damage Claims Act even though he is no longer holding public office.

He is ex-Congressman Laurence Curtis who is frequently mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for Governor next year.

As a private citizen Curtis has been continuing a battle he waged while a Congressman against lush payments of war damage claims which he labels as "a steal."

His role has been an unusual one since statements prepared by him have been read into the Congressional Record by former colleagues in the national House.

Here is the background of the row which has commanded increasing attention in Washington, with private citizen Curtis a central figure in the controversy.

In 1946 the United States, in order to rehabilitate the Philippine economy, undertook to compensate the Philippine people for war damage to private property. Approximately $400 million was expended, but the Philippine people claimed more should be paid them.

In 1960 the Eisenhower administration recommended a settlement by paying $73 million to the Philippine government. Curtis charges that lobbyists and large claimants used influence to have the money paid to private claimants instead of the Philippine government and succeeded in getting a bill through Congress in that form last year.

Curtis fought this maneuver in the House Foreign Affairs Committee, of which he was a member, and in the House itself. He even interrupted his campaign for the U. S. Senate to testify before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in opposition to the proposal.

After the bill had become law, Senator Fulbright of Arkansas launched an investigation into the activities of foreign agents in connection with the measure. The Senate probe resulted in a move to amend the law so that the money would be paid to the Philippine government as originally suggested.

It is the fight for that revision in the law which Curtis has continued under the handicap of no longer being a member of Congress. But friends in the Congress have worked with him and have used material he furnished them.

Curtis conducted an individual probe of his own. This has resulted in an allegation by him, which was placed in the Congressional Record, that testimony given before a congressional committee by Under-Secretary of State Douglas Dillon was suppressed and never printed in the record of hearings.

That precipitated a flurry of charges and counter-charges.

Curtis declares that his objective is to show "that the House was imposed upon, just as the Senate has found that it was and should accept the Senate amendment or a reasonable compromise."

Right now the Senate and House are stalemated on the issue, with the matter before a conference committee and Curtis, although on the political sidelines, still in the midst of the argument.

Women Voters' League Aims Guns At Council

One thing which can be said for the members of the League of Women Voters is that they don't get discouraged easily. Or at least they don't stay discouraged.

Last fall the League went on record as favoring the adoption of a constitutional amendment which would have permitted the enactment of a graduated State income tax.

The impact made by the League on that issue was exactly zero.

So overwhelmingly was the graduated tax proposal turned down that most political observers assume that even the husbands of the League members disregarded the counsel of their wives upon reaching the privacy of the voting booths.

Why the well-intentioned League members ever became involved in that controversy is still something of a mystery.

Now the valiant, battle-scarred League members are marching back to the political ramparts.

This time their objective is to put the Governor's Council out of business.

They are enlisting their members in a drive for signatures on a petition which would strip the Executive Council of all its statutory powers.

What this means is that the League wants to take away from the Council all the authority except that granted to it in the State Constitution.

This is exactly the same thing the able Representative Mary Newman of Cambridge tried to do. But Mrs. Newman found that the Councilors have enough friends in the Legislature to block a bill to trim down their powers.

Whether the League of Women Voters will be any more successful than Representative Newman is a question future developments will answer. Right now it seems unlikely.

Not a single person appeared at a legislative hearing this week to support or oppose a proposal by Governor Peabody to establish a new position of chief justice of the Massachusetts probate courts.

Even Peabody's own legislative spokesman was among the missing.

Perhaps this was an oversight. Or maybe the Governor was backing away from the idea of creating a needless position which would involve a substantial expenditure of public funds.

An impression exists on Beacon Hill, however, that the bill which nobody supported might just slip through the legislature.

Grateful For Hospital And Police Efficiency

Nathan Schuler of 95 Elinor Rd., Newton Highlands is happy to report that Mrs. Schuler, who was injured in an accident last week, is coming along fine.

Grateful to the Newton Police for their prompt response to an emergency call, and to Newton-Wellesley Hospital for the attention given his wife, Mr. Schuler has written two letters as follows:

To the police: "I wish to take this opportunity to commend the Newton police in their duties on an emergency which happened recently."

"On Wednesday, June 26, at 10:30 p. m., my wife suffered an accident which made it necessary to call the police. Within six minutes the police ambulance arrived with two officers who speedily and carefully transported my wife to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital where an emergency operation was performed."

"Even though accidents are not welcomed, it is a great source of comfort to know that the Newton police are so dependable and available when the need arises."

To the hospital, Mr. Schuler wrote: "My wife was rushed to your emergency ward, where Dr. Sidney Slater Cohen performed an emergency operation on her leg."

"My wife insists that I write to tell you how pleased she was with the attention given her, especially the care and solicitude of the nurse who assisted Dr. Cohen."

Files Change In Parking Rules

Alderman Ernest F. Dietz has filed with City Clerk Monte G. Basbas an amendment to the new off-street parking space ordinances.

It would bar the sale of land suitable for parking if such sale results in insufficient parking facilities for existing buildings.

The Alderman said that his proposal resulted from the recently denied petition of the DoAll Boston Company for sale of land at Needham and Winchester Sts., for a gasoline service station.

A public hearing on the proposal will be held by the committee on Claims and Rules and the Planning Board at City Hall on July 8 at 7:45 p.m.

Scout Troop 219 Ends Year With A Gala Dinner

The Harold Carver Trophy, given each year to the most outstanding scout of Troop 219, was presented to David Dobler by Carl Stiles, a veteran of 20 scouting years, as the highlight of a dinner in the First Church of Newton, the troop's sponsoring institution.

The casserole dinner for 110 persons, put on by the Mothers' Committee, Mrs. Warren Dean, chairman, brought the troop's activities for the year to an exciting end.

Ronald Dean, scout committee chairman, opened it with an address of welcome, and after the meal there was a Court of Honor, with awards presented as follows:

Tenderfoot badges — Presented by Col. E. Lake Jones to Robert E. Berkowitz, Angelo Collins, John Chen and Steven Scrimshaw.

First Class badges — Presented by Robert Elder and James Spinks to Steven Cutler, James Spinks, Thomas Elder, Kenneth Giles, Clifton Dean, Fraser Gurd and David Dobler.

Patrol of the Year was awarded to the Flaming Arrow Patrol, and a Star Scout Award went to Fraser Gurd.

One or two outstanding scouts of the troop will be sent next summer to the Valley Forge National Camporee in Pennsylvania. This summer, Dr. Edward Cutler, scoutmaster, plans several trips with the boys to Cape Cod and the White Mountains. Some boys will take in the Hidden Valley Camp in Gilmanton, N. H.

Women Voters League Members Decide Agenda

The League of Women Voters, a non-partisan organization, operates on a national, state, and local level. The program to be studied is decided upon by the membership.

This year's current agenda items to be discussed by the Newton League of Women Voters under the national program are the United Nations and Foreign Economic Policy. ## Hotel 128 In Needham Has Grand Opening

More than 1,000 invited guests attended the grand opening of the 90-room Hotel 128—Needham last Saturday on a rocky hilltop overlooking the New England Industrial Center and surrounding countryside.

State Senator Leslie B. Cutler of Needham officiated at the ribbon cutting.

The new Needham hotel joins the already-successful Hotel 128—Dedham. Arthur L. Lee, president of the Dedham Hotel Corporation, cited the location and expanding industrial growth along Route 128 in Needham and Newton as the primary reasons for construction of the new facility.

Mr. Lee will oversee operations of both the Dedham and Needham hotels.

Brandeis Seeks Old Volumes For Book Exchange

Brandeis University's National Women's Committee is making its annual appeal in behalf of its Book Exchange, and asks householders in this area to gather up all books accumulating dust in attics, cellars and on closet shelves.

Arrangements for their being picked up can be made by calling Mrs. Simon Love of 859 Dedham St., Newton Centre, at DE 2-3609.

These home literary storehouses may have lost their value to the home folks but they do have value to others, the committee points out. Students, professors, collectors and just plain readers find many volumes in the Book Exchange that they are happy to purchase, the committee adds, and explains that profits from the Exchange are applied to purchase of new books for the university's Goldfarb Library.

Those who climb aboard the new-books-for-old bandwagon can help accomplish a three-fold purpose, the committee says: 1 — New books for the Goldfarb Library. 2 — Old books for Exchange customers to further their studies. 3 — Acquisition of additional storage space at home by taking advantage of this outlet for unwanted dust collectors.

A requiem Mass for Mrs. Irma Antoine, an accomplished musician in France, her native country, was held this morning (Thursday) in St. John the Evangelist Church.

Mrs. Antoine, whose 83rd birthday was Sunday, died Monday, June 17 at her home, 4 Hovey St., Newton.

Born in Toulon, she taught voice at the Marseille Conservatory of Music for 25 years until her retirement. She and her husband, the late Augustine Antoine, a retired professor of music, came to this country in 1949. Her son Roger Antoine, an assistant mathematics professor at Northeastern University, and her daughter, Marguerite Antoine, an assistant professor at Stonehill College, made their home with their mother here. She is also survived by four grandchildren.

There were 28 Newton residents on Wellesley College campus for the annual weekend and reunion held recently.

Mrs. T. Edson Jewell Jr., of 216 Waverly avenue, president of the Alumnae Association, will lead the Newton delegation comprising Miss Barbara M. Hahn, Mrs. Reiner Beuwkes, Mrs. Arthur S. Dewing and Mrs. Ruth McG. Lane.

Newton Centre residents at the reunion will include Mrs. Julian D. Anthony, Mrs. Albert N. Burmon, Miss Leonie M. Chandonnet, Miss Helen B. Chase, Mrs. Harold S. Goldberg, Mrs. Herbert W. Rubin, and Mrs. Thomas W. Smith.

From Newton Highlands are reunion members Mrs. Robert E. Briggs, Mrs. Robert O. Smith, and Mrs. Charles A. Thompson. Newtonville will be represented by Mrs. Robert C. Foster, Mrs. Lawrence J. Sullivan and Miss Ruth C. Wise. West Newton women returning to the Wellesley campus will include Mrs. Gordon F. Bloom, Mrs. R. Emerson Burns, Mrs. Harold R. Keller, Mrs. Robert H. Loomis, Mrs. Sanford E. Ritter, Mrs. Gordon B. Sawyer, and Mrs. Herbert Zakon.

Others attending reunion will include Mrs. R. J. Junda and Mrs. William Plumer both of Waban, and Miss Constance Buell of Auburndale.

The new legislation provides fines ranging up to $1000 for violations. Under previous statutes, the department's powers were limited, and fines ranged only to $500.

Asthma Group To Hold Party For Members

The life-saving work of the Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital was evident recently, when three local teenagers returned to their families here from Denver glowing with health and ready to resume active, useful lives.

The recently organized local volunteer chapter of that organization called attention to the fact in announcing a gala cocktail party to honor members that was held in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Finn, 27 Nobscot Rd., Newton Centre, Sunday afternoon, June 30, at 4 o'clock.

The chapter points out that the institute is unique in that it is the only one in the world engaged solely in asthma research, and that treatment, care and rehabilitation have benefited youngsters from all parts of the world at no cost, regardless of race, creed or religion.

Ericksons Have Pre-Ball Party

Professor and Mrs. Franklin C. Erickson of 355 Cabot St., Newtonville, were hosts at a festive gathering in their home prior to the recent Boston University Book Fund Ball that was held in the new Sherman Student Union.

The guests included Dr. and Mrs. Leo E. Duprey of Chestnut Hill, Professor and Mrs. Gerald Hawkins of Wellesley and Major and Mrs. William Ewell of Brockton.

Proceeds of the ball are to be applied to purchase of books for the library.

Bid Farewell To Foreign Visitors

Newton Field Service exchange students were given a farewell party recently at Eliot Church parish house.

Guests of honor were three students from other countries who have attended the Newton high schools this year and lived with Newton families.

They are Teresa Porzanski of Uruguay, Tomoko Sumikawa of Japan, and Andrew Wezye of Uganda.

Representing "Americans Abroad" from Newton this year are Yvonne Baginsky, who recently left for Brazil, Robert Joyce, now in Chile, Ruth Ann Bliss, who will be returning from Italy in June, and Judy Dietz, who returned from Germany in February.

Contributions to help support the Newton chapter of the American Field Service exchange program may be sent to Donald M. Hill, Jr., treasurer, 24 Solon st., Newton Highlands.

Youngsters Help In Fund Raising

Fifty-six youngsters took part in a contest recently sponsored by the PTA of Beth El Atereth Israel to raise funds for the school library.

Elaine Alpert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Alpert, 18 Vineyard Rd., Newton Centre, sold 115 boxes of cards and candy, and won the top prize. Second prize went to two brothers, Eric and Mark, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Andler, 20 Mandalay Rd., Newton Centre.

Newton Boy Student Is Grateful To City

A grateful Negro boy, as spokesman for two other students of his race, has written a letter from his heart to the people of Newton to thank them for the opportunity afforded to obtain an education here when the public schools of his Southern homeland were closed to Negro youngsters.

Three Negro students who attended the Newton public schools during the past year after being denied a public school education in their hometown of Prince Edward County, Virginia, have expressed appreciation through their spokesman, Moses Scott, one of the students involved.

Mrs. Proctor Houghton, local co-chairman with Samuel Turner, of the Emergency Committee for Placement of Prince Edward County Children, was the recipient of the letter which is published in its entirety in The Graphic today.

It may be recalled that all public schools were closed in Prince Edward County since 1958 in order to prevent Negro children from attending them. White children continued their education at private schools.

The Emergency Committee was formed to aid these unfortunate Negro youngsters. The three who came to Newton, Moses Scott, writer of the letter, Barbara Botts and "Skip" Griffin, attended schools here and resided with Newton families.

They achieved outstanding scholastic records and "Skip" Griffin added considerable prestige as an athlete. The letter from Moses Scott follows:

To the Editor:
Prince Edward's students speak just to say . . .

Prince Edward County, located 60 miles west of Richmond, Virginia, and adjacent to the famous Appomattox County, is an insignificant area, so insignificant that under normal conditions, the average American would be ignorant of the very existence of this small rural county.

However, this county diverges far from the normal; one could almost say that Prince Edward County is quite abnormal—abnormal because this dreadful area has literally seceded from modern civilization.

For about five years now, five drawn-out, painful years, Prince Edward County has been without public education. The whites in the county attend private schools. The Negroes are virtually school-less.

In 1958, the year schools were barred in Prince Edward, there were approximately 1700 Negroes of school age. About 200 of these 1700 were lucky to receive education outside their home area.

About 50 of these, like me, were placed in private homes across the country,

JASON SACKS

Jason Sacks Is Named Director Of Chamber

Jason Sacks, prominent local businessman, has been elected to serve as a member of the board of directors of the Newton Chamber of Commerce, according to the announcement this week by George L. White, chamber president.

Mr. Sacks will fill the unexpired term of Director Paul Rich who resigned recently because of business reasons. Director Sacks is president of Peterson's Jewelry Company, Newton Centre, and 1963 president of the Newton Centre Businessmen's Association.

In commenting on the appointment of Mr. Sacks, President White said, "We are indeed fortunate to have Mr. Sacks accept this appointment. He brings to this directorship a wealth of retail experience from the Newton Centre business area and a knowledge and understanding of the problems affecting the Newton Centre businessman."

$19,000 Grants To Further Local Educational Project

Another chapter was added last week to the absorbing and always continuing story of progress in the public schools of Newton.

This one opens with an announcement by Dr. Charles E. Brown, the city's school superintendent.

"Grants totalling $19,000 have been received," Dr. Brown said, "in support of a project to expand the teaching of business history and economic concept at the secondary school level."

The school head's communication went on to explain that teaching of business history began here as a pilot project because the subject had long been omitted from standard text books.

Last summer it was decided to fill the gap, and four social studies teachers at Weeks Junior High School took on the job of writing case histories of four businesses, the Dennison Manufacturing Company, the Standard Oil Company, the Ford Motor Company and Brooks Brothers.

The underlying thought was that if those case studies proved successful as teaching tools, they could set a pattern for case material to be written and used widely throughout the country.

Proof of how well the idea caught on is provided in Dr. Brown's announcement of the $19,000 grants.

Newton's unique method for introducing students to a new perspective in American history and giving them a broader understanding of the operation of American economy has attracted wide interest and, fortunately, the dollars to get the project established.

Its modest introduction in a summer workshop at Weeks Junior High was financed by

900 Volunteer Workers Enlist For Fall Campaign

EDWARD F. HENNESSEY

Newtonite Is President Of BU Law Alumni

A Boston trial lawyer and Newton resident, Attorney Edward F. Hennessey, has been elected president of Boston University's School of Law Alumni Association. Atty. Phil Fine of Newton was elected a vice president.

Attorney Hennessey is a former assistant district attorney for Middlesex County and currently is editor-in-chief of the Massachusetts Law Quarterly.

He is a member of the Class of 1949 at the B. U. School of Law and has been actively engaged as a trial lawyer for a number of years. He is a part-

A vigorous city-wide recruitment of workers to assist in Newton's 1963 United Fund campaign already has resulted in the signing up of a corps of 900 volunteers.

This amazing spring and early summer listing is largely due to the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Miller, co-chairmen for the forthcoming fund-raising drive here.

Results of the volunteer recruitment campaign were revealed at the recent meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Miller, who also announced the appointment of those Newton citizens who will serve on the executive committee and act as administrators and directors of the fall drive.

The response in this city to the requests for cooperative work on the coming United Fund drive were prompt and wholehearted, according to Chairman Miller.

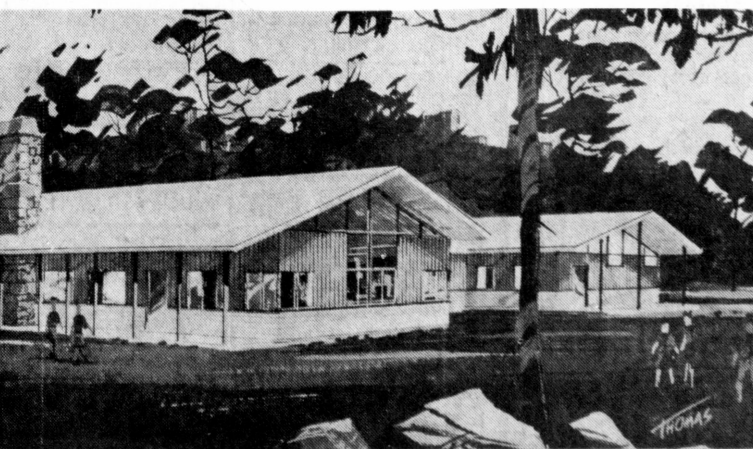

"Rather than wait until the close of the summer sea-

Chief Purcell Honored at 4th of July Event

According to all reports, the July 4 festivities sponsored by the Newton Centre Improvement Association were highly enjoyed by everybody involved.

The term "everybody" is all inclusive, as it takes in the members of the committees responsible for the gala field day events for youngsters and the night concert by the 18th Army Band from Fort Devens, the throngs of kids who competed for prizes, ate free ice cream and had for themselves a great day in general, and the city's police chief, Philip Purcell.

The chief was cited by the association as Newton's Citizen of the Year. Among the many reasons for the choice were Purcell's activity over a long period of time for such charitable and civic affairs as the Red Feather campaign, the Jimmy Fund, and the Newton Community Council, of which he has been vice-president.

New Scout Camp Dedicated Sunday

The new dining and recreational facility at the Norumbega Council's Boy Scout Reservation at Gilmanton, N. H., shown in artist's sketch, will be formally dedicated next Sunday, July 14th at 2 o'clock. A conducted tour and water show will be held starting at 1 o'clock. Reservations must be made at the Council Office, 239 Walnut St., Newtonville.

Luxury Theatre Is Facing Opposition

By a margin of 50 to 40, residents in the Newton Centre area recorded themselves opposed Monday night to a proposal for the erection of a $1,000,000 luxury theatre on the Worcester Turnpike in their section of the city.

The sentiment was recorded at a public hearing before the City Planning Board and the Aldermanic Claims and Rules Committee at which a number of matters were considered and discussed.

Under the plan outlined by former Alderman Ernest G. Angevine, speaking for the Stanton Realty Co., the luxury theatre would have twin auditoriums so there could be two starting times for its programs.

In the front of the theatre would be 100 spaces in which motorists could park their own cars, and in the rear there would be valet parking at no cost.

To make possible the erection of the theatre, the petitioners are asking that 147,405 square feet of land on Boylston street at Gasberri avenue in Newton Centre be zoned for Business "A". The land presently is zoned for Residential "D".

Angevine submitted letters from a number of nearby residents as well as the Garden City Trust Company supporting the idea.

However, sentiment among those who showed up at the hearing was 54 against the application.

Increased traffic and noise created by the theatre-goers were two of the reasons given by the objectors for the stand they took.

Bruce Campbell, Boston traffic expert who appeared as a witness for the petitioner, testified that there has been no appreciable increase in traffic on the Worcester Turnpike in the past five years and that the artery could handle any increase in traffic resulting from the construction of the contemplated new theatre.

But Alan Bernson of 175 Florence st., speaking for the Chestnut Hill Improvement Association, predicted that many theatre patrons would use Florence street as a bypass, increasing the traffic load on the street and causing safety hazards.

Objection to the application because of both traffic and noise was expressed by Mr. and Mrs. Leon Damron of 66 Tanglewood rd., Mrs. William J. Turtle of 130 Dudley rd. and Mrs. Madge C. Wadinger of 100 Dudley rd. Myron Atlas of 101 Craftsland rd. also objected.

Others who listed themselves as opposed to the move included Alan Barkin, president of the Oak Hill District Improvement Association, and Hector F. Chicetti, speaking for the Thompsonville Improvement Association and the Italian Benevolent Society.

Those who spoke in favor of the petition included Louis Chandler of 105 Bald Pate Hill rd., Dr. Albert E. Weiner of 401 Dudley rd. and Frank Signore of 364 Boylston st.

Mayor Donald L. Gibbs made a rare appearance before the two committees to advocate that the zoning be changed on a tract of land bounded by Webster st.,

Crescent st., Rowe st., and Massachusetts Turnpike Authority property.

The purpose of the change urged by the Mayor is to provide 12 house lots for families forced to relocate because their homes stand in the path of the Toll Road Extension and to offer a new location for Richard White Sons Co., whose office and warehouse on Crescent st. are being taken by the Turnpike Authority.

If the zoning change is approved, the Turnpike Authority would move a dozen dwellings from the Hicks street area and place them on new foundations in this tract.

This was agreed upon in a pact worked out by Mayor Gibbs and Turnpike Authority Chairman William F. Calahan back in 1961.

REV. WILLIAM E. FOLEY

Rev. Foley To Be New Rector At Church Here

The Rev. William E. Foley, formerly of New York and Texas, will become rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Episcopal, in Waban, effective Sept. 1.

He was born in Buffalo and is a graduate of Canisius College. During World War II he served for two years in the infantry, in this country and overseas.

Following his war service, he attended the graduate school of New York University and Harvard Law School before deciding to enter the Episcopal ministry.

The Rev. Foley was graduated in 1956 from the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge. Prior to accepting the Waban assignment, he had been associated with Episcopal churches in New York City and Austin, Texas.

His wife, Marilyn, was born in Arlington, N. J., and is a graduate of Wellesley College. She was an instructor in art at Wellesley when she met Mr. Foley, then a seminary student. They were married in 1954 and have two children, Katherine, aged seven, and Billy, four.

Bouchard Is Named to DAV State Office

Adjutant John E. Bouchard, P.C. of Chaplain Farrell Chapin, No. 28, D.A.V., of Newton, was elected as Department Senior Vice Commander of the Massachusetts Disabled American Veterans at the recent Springfield convention.

Under the skillful leadership of Commander Robert H. H. Nichols, the local delegates were able to bring the victory home to Newton.

Past Commander J. Edward Theriault gave an effective nominating speech which outlined Bouchard's eleven years active membership qualifications.

The Newton delegates, P.C. Edward Edmunds, D.S.C., Edward Decoste P.C., Ralph Madocks, P.C., Charles Atkinson SVC, State Rep. Joseph Bradley JVC, John McGuinness, Edmund Terrior and Sal Salvulucio did a thorough job in campaigning to make the Bouchard victory possible.

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

GOP Chairman Out of Step With Liberal Party Leaders

Republican politicians are so busy explaining that GOP State Chairman Frederic C. Dumaine, Jr., speaks only for himself and not for his party that it obviously is only a matter of time before the former railroad tycoon gets the heave-ho out of Republican headquarters.

By the time the axe falls on Dumaine, however, he may have set the Republican party in Massachusetts back about 75 years—possibly more if he keeps on as he has been doing.

The GOP State Committee has had some conservative chairmen back through the years, but Dumaine certainly is in a class by himself.

A fair appraisal of his political views would be that he is slightly to the right of the late President McKinley.

Many of the more liberal Republicans have reached for the smelling salts after hearing or reading some of the speeches made by the blunt, tactless Dumaine who was elected to the GOP State Chairmanship over the opposition of such party leaders as Attorney General Edward W. Brooke, Senator Leverett Saltonstall and ex-Governor John A. Volpe.

Massachusetts would become a one-party state overnight if the GOP were to campaign on the issues expounded by Dumaine.

Paradoxically, Dumaine, although an official Republican spokesman by virtue of the position he holds,

Clean Bill Of Major Holiday Accidents Here

The City of Newton was virtually free from major automobile accidents over the July 4 weekend, due in great part to extra precautions taken by the police.

Their extra patrols operated on all major highways between 4:45 p.m. Wednesday and 7:45 a.m. Monday was intended as a preventive, and so they turned out to be.

The patrol cars were concentrated on Routes 16, 9, 30, 128 and the old Rte 128. Their object was to keep speed down and to be alert for any other violations of the motor laws.

There were a few minor mishaps, but major crackups were nil, the department reported when the holiday rush was over.

Dr. Keagle Receives 'Man of Year' Award

Dr. LeRoy C. Keagle, of Newton, the dean of Northeastern University's College of Pharmacy, has been chosen as the "Outstanding Man of the Year" by Omega Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta, the fraternity of the healing arts.

Dr. Keagle, a resident of West Newton, was honored at the annual banquet of the organization.

He was presented a plaque for outstanding achievement in pharmaceutical education in New England by William A. Gouveia, of Lowell, student chancellor of the fraternity.

Since then, further financial encouragement has come from the International Business Machine Corporation, the Esso Foundation and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

The project was the subject of an illustrated feature article in this spring's issue of "Lamp," a beautifully put together and widely circulated publication of the New Jersey Standard Oil Company. In the "Lamp" article it was stated that "many schools, of course, are concerned over the fact that nearly all high school and many college graduates are uneducated in economics," and in the following words the magazine gave Newton the credit for making up the lack:

Make-up, subtly and thoughtfully applied, can work wonders for the woman who takes the necessary time to do the job right. For example: Utilizing make-up to narrow down a too-wide jawline is a fairly simple chore. Using a base two or three shades darker than your own, blend it carefully over the area of the jawline you wish to de-emphasize. Follow this by applying your regular make-up.

For the really crowning touch, follow this with a session at CONTINENTAL COIFFEURS with expert attention to your hair. ### Newton Summer Theatre Comedy

Newton residents who have yet to attend the picturesque Newton Summer Theater are reminded that "The Chalk Garden," the second in a series of three comedies presented this season, will continue through next Saturday, July 13.

Prominent in the cast are Joe Oberly of Irvington St., Waban, playing the part of Mrs. St. Maugham, Deborah Trowbridge of Columbus St., Newton Highlands, in the part of the 16-year-old Laurel. Also in the cast are Ruth Edinberg of Indian Ridge Rd., Newton Centre, and Harriet Wilson of Park Dr., Newton Centre.

The Newton Summer Theater makes a policy of using local, professional talent.

rials this summer at Weeks. They have assistance from university specialists in history and economics. The materials they prepare will be tested during the coming year in pilot schools located in various parts of the country.

Recognizing the need to provide teachers with further background in business history and economics, plans are being made to sponsor a series of teacher-training institutes. The first of them, tentatively, will be held in Newton in the summer of 1964.

In addition to Dr. Brown and Mr. Cawein, the advisory committee includes Dr. Ralph W. Hidey and Professor Donald Oliver of Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, Director Kenneth Sheldon of the New England Economic Education Council, Dr. Edwin Fenton of Carnegie Institute of Technology, Dean John O'Neal of Fairleigh Dickinson University school of Education in Rutherford, N.J., and Joseph Sylva and Miss Helene Glenn of Weeks Junior High School.

Paul Cawein summed up the case for the project in an article he wrote for "The Newton Teacher" last month. "Teaching in this way is not only theoretically sound it is also, fun," he said. "The fact that these cases really happened captures the imagination of the students."

They discover that business and economics are human and colorful. Some even discover an interest in their father's daily activities. Most find a new interest in class as they deal with the exciting aspects of everyday reality."

William E. White told the committees that there is no other site in Newton which would be suitable for the relocation of his office and warehouse.

Part of the land is now zoned for residence "C", part is zoned for manufacturing and part is unzoned. The petition seeks to have it rezoned for business "B".

Dino DiCarlo, representing three companies which own the land now zoned for manufacturing, opposed the petition. He said the property is one of the few remaining manufacturing tracts in Newton which has a railroad siding and that he has offered $200,000 for the land.

The matters were taken under advisement by the two committees and decision reserved.

Community Center Camping Activity Set For 6 Weeks

Newton Community Center staff members are preparing for continued activity in the camping program for the final six weeks.

Anthony J. Bibbo, executive director of the Center, in commenting on the two camps, pointed out that registrations will continue throughout the summer for the second, third and fourth periods. The periods run for two consecutive weeks with the second period scheduled to get underway on Monday, July 15. Parents are urged to make reservations as soon as possible. Registrations are taken at the Newton Community Center. Transportation to camp and home is available.

All the boys and girls in the older camp for children 7 to 12 years of age have been tested in their swimming skills. The testing was conducted at the Blue Hills and Walden Pond. Children will receive instruction in swimming from the point they are now qualified. Qualification examinations for the youngsters will be conducted throughout the camping season.

Among the favorite activities of the boys and girls in this camp have been softball, quiet games, and the arts and crafts activity. Each child has had the opportunity to work on a gimp project. Unit heads for the camp are James Callahan, Unit I; George Grasso, Unit II, and Robert Turner, Unit III. Swimming instruction is being conducted under the direction of Miss Beverly Alpert and Miss Mary Hancock.

Prize Winners In Ward School Holiday Program

The Ward School Playgroup, Newton Centre, on July 3 was the scene of a gala fourth of July celebration. Under the supervision of the Newton Recreation department, children participated in a patriotic program, decoration activities, a costume contest, a bike parade, and relay races. Red, white, and blue refreshments were served.

Selections from the Declaration of Independence, "Paul Revere's Ride," and the Preamble to the Constitution were read by Charles Kaye, Velma Bercury, Margie Ulian, and Helene Mayer. The flag ceremony and patriotic sing were led by Jane Handler and Linda Price.

First prizes in the costume contest went to Bette Mezzoff as the Statue of Liberty and Jane Mezzoff as Betsy Ross. Second prizes were awarded to Beth Colten as Betsy Ross, Nancy Colten as an Indian girl, and Margie Ulian as the Statue of Liberty. Third prizes went to Beth Mayer as a princess of liberty, and Beth Price as "the spirit of 1776."

Prizes for the bike parade were won by Velma Bercury and Nancy Colten. Other prize winners were Howie Ulian, Amy Handler, Deanie Colten and Debbie Colten. The playgroup instructors are Martin Savitz and Nancy Lurensky.

Dartmouth Grad Gets Citations

A recent graduate of Dartmouth College from Newton Highlands has received two faculty citations for outstanding academic achievement.

Richard B. Swett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Swett, 235 Lincoln St., was cited by two professors during this past term. Such citations are rare and are made a part of a student's permanent record.

Donald Bartlett, professor of biography, cited Swett for "thorough, independent and imaginative work in Biography 52" and Gene M. Lyons, director of the Great Issues Course praised him for "stimulating and penetrating participation in discussion sections and perceptive analysis of issues in his course essay."

Swett was graduated from Dartmouth magna cum laude and with high distinction in his major field of chemistry.

Chernis Grant To Tulane U.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Chernis of 281 Prince St., West Newton, have established a $10,000 scholarship at Tulane University, New Orleans, in memory of their 18-year-old son who died in an automobile accident two months before he was to have entered the university.

A resolution of the board of administrators acknowledging the fund reads, in part: "The Administrators express their deep appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Chernis for this gift and their appreciation of the opportunity of joining them in honoring the memory of their son throughout the years to come by the assistance given worthy students who will hold this scholarship while undertaking their studies at Tulane University."

Hospital Better X-Ray Service To Meet Demand

Newton-Wellesley Hospital has taken steps to improve service to patients requiring emergency X-rays.

The move was made necessary by the fact that more and more persons are using the emergency department.

During fiscal 1962, the hospital logged 13,198 emergency cases, an increase of approximately 25 percent over the previous year. Nearly 1500 cases were treated in May of this year, the highest monthly total in the hospital's history.

Director William S. Brines explained that the hospital has installed an X-ray machine and film processing facilities on the main floor, adjacent to the Emergency Department.

"We have moved a diagnostic machine from the third floor X-ray Department," he said. "That reduces the distance a patient must be transported, and should speed up the process of taking X-rays."

According to the Director, a 300 milliamper, 120 kilovolt X-ray machine and a dark-room have been installed in rooms formerly housing offices, and located just outside the dozen-room emergency suite.

"Because the X-ray tube is suspended on a crane from the ceiling," he continued, "it can travel throughout the room, and take films of patients on stretchers and litters."

"We also hope to use the unit for elective examinations," he said, "such as the follow-up of future cases and other diagnostic work involving outpatients."

Caltech Degree

A master of science degree has been conferred on Eliot F. Tucker, of Newton Highlands, by President L. A. DuBridge of the California Institute of Technology at the annual Caltech commencement held recently.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Tucker, and majored in Civil Engineering at Caltech. He was graduated from Northeastern University, Class of 1962.

through the American Friends Service Committee working with local groups like the one in Newton. Several of these families were located in Greater Boston.

All of them possess one common denominator—a hatred for that vicious virus, prejudice, and a desire to help their fellow-man. In short, we could say, that these families possessed golden hearts—pure golden hearts.

I often wonder: where would I be if it were not for the aforementioned golden-hearted human beings? I would probably be spitting those words of slavery—"yes suh, yes suh, Mr. Charlie"—to some member of the "superior" race. My position in life would have been relegated to that of a slave—albeit a freed slave.

To be able to attend school is usually taken for granted. However, we, the young students from Prince Edward attending school here consider the opportunity to receive an education in a good school system the greatest gift that we have ever received or ever shall receive.

In short, you could say that we, the outcasts from Prince Edward County feel indebted and extremely grateful to you, the folks of the Greater Boston area. From the deepest corner of our grateful hearts, we all join in unison to say once again—Thank you!

Sincerely yours,
Moses Scott

Bruce defeated Jerry Colton of Waban, 6-love, 6-1 to annex the singles crown.

Bay Staters Rally 'Round Flag: Mass. Soldiers Participate In Picket's Charge Re-Enactment

By RICHARD W. DAVIS

Gettysburg, Pa., July 4—Today's dramatic re-creation of Pickett's Charge—exactly a century after it happened—climaxed the three-day Centennial observance of the Battle of Gettysburg, the bloodiest encounter ever held on the North American continent.

Massachusetts' gallant soldiers, as in the war 100 years ago, played a prominent part in today's battle. A Massachusetts brigade, armed with rifle muskets and swords, and its tattered regimental battle flags flying in the breeze, was in the center of the Union line at Cemetery Ridge. General Lee's best soldiers converging on this point, the Angle, hoped to ram through Governor Meade's army, then chop it to pieces. This would be the desperate victory the South prayed for. But the determined Union defense poured musket volleys into the oncoming rebels and repulsed the men of Pickett's division.

The Massachusetts brigade, commanded by Lieutenant Allen B. Hood of Elmwood, represented all the units which had participated in the three-day battle of 1863. Massachusetts lost more than 300 men, killed in action, while nearly a thousand more were wounded—many helplessly crippled for life.

Among those witnessing today's battle was Governor Endicott Peabody, who earlier in the three-day program was one of the featured speakers at the re-dedication of the Eternal Light Peace Memorial which overlooks the scene of the first day's battle on Oak Ridge.

A crowd of over 40,000 braved the searing July sun in this Pennsylvania hamlet to watch the reenactment of the high point of the Confederacy—the massive assault by 15,000 Confederates on the center of the Union line. After the repulse of Pickett's Charge, Gen. Lee with his battered Army of Northern Virginia gave up his invasion of Pennsylvania and retreated homeward. Though two more years of struggle remained before Appomattox, this dramatic moment with its appalling casualties was the turning point of the War Between the States. The tide of the Confederacy had reached its High Water Mark. Had Lee been victorious today we would be two nations.

At today's reenactment, 50 stereophonic speakers produced battlefield sounds and carried narrations (written by Richard N. Bernstein) by actor Walter Abel and George Fielding Eliot, military analyst. But the 40,000 casually dressed tourists and Civil War buffs seemed to push the electronic din from their ears and minds.

And despite the cacophony they heard in the distance the raspy, rhythmic voices of drill sergeants counting cadence for troops who traced the footsteps of the men who fought in the most crucial battle of the War Between the States.

Many thousands took part in the great massacre here a hundred years ago today. More than 7000 were killed—most by the deadly canister shot of the Union artillery, the rest picked off systematically by expert riflemen.

The thousands who represented the Blue and Gray in today's dramatization carried flags, not guns. Bloodshed was replaced by brotherhood.

A hush fell over the crowd at 2:45 p.m. when a puff of smoke and the "rebel yell" came from the men in Gray on Seminary Ridge. It was the signal that sent 13,000 men charging across the turf in 1863.

The contemporary "troops" with the blue-on-red Stars and Bars of the Confederacy waving above their heads, moved towards the High Water Mark at a quick step or "route march."

Waiting at the Bloody Angle of the Stone Wall were 500 men in gray or traditional regimental uniforms. It was at that site—near the same cluster of trees—that General George Gordon Meade's men did "stand firm" in the bloodiest battle ever fought in the Western Hemisphere.

The gap between the forces at Cemetery Ridge narrowed as the soldiers advanced, pointing cannon and guns at each other. Machines produced simulated cannon smoke.

When the two armies were about 100 feet apart—the point at which vicious hand-to-hand fighting broke out a century ago—the soldiers suddenly lowered their arms. Handclaps and friendly words replaced the hand-to-hand fighting in this re-creation of the skirmish.

Then both sides marched together to a point behind the Bloody Angle. They formed in squares and pledged allegiance to the United States. Two soldiers raised the Stars and Stripes while a Navy band played the National Anthem.

Both sides had spent the past three days in tents on the battlefield.

The spectators, having had moving glimpses of the past, shuffled from the field. Many stopped to visit nearby museums replete with memorabilia of the past before starting home from the historic event—one long to be remembered.

Political Highlights

is repudiated by top GOP figures almost every time he speaks out.

For example, Dumaine attacked the social security program in one speech, declaring that it is one of the worst laws ever enacted.

The GOP State chairman blasted President Kennedy's civil rights program and accused the Kennedy administration of stirring up Negro demonstrations in the South.

It is difficult to figure out how Dumaine could find any more effective way of alienating the colored voters than by such a statement.

Shortly after Dumaine delivered his eyebrow-lifting pronouncement, the Northampton Republican City Committee went on record as favoring Kennedy's civil rights program and adopted a resolution urging Senator Saltonstall and the GOP members of the Massachusetts Congressional delegation to support it.

Among other things, Dumaine has lashed out at Kennedy's foreign aid program.

It is little wonder that a top figure in the Goldwater wing of the Republican party in Massachusetts recently asserted that Dumaine is too conservative for the Goldwater group.

If Dumaine is too conservative you can imagine how far out for the Goldwater faction, of step he is with such GOP leaders as Brooke, Volpe and Saltonstall.

Dumaine may well achieve the distinction of being the first Republican State Chairman in Massachusetts history to be thrown out of office for being too conservative.

One can only speculate on how much harm he may do to the GOP cause in the Commonwealth before the election of a new Republican State Chairman is held next May after the Presidential primaries.

An argument advanced when Dumaine's election as State Chairman was maneuvered by George C. Lodge, Elmer Nelson, Winfield Schuster and a few others was that he would be a tremendous fund-raiser for the GOP.

It seems quite possible that some of the money brought into the Republican campaign chest by Dumaine may have to be used to advertise the fact that the political views of the fiery State Chairman are not those of his party.

GOP State Committee Gets Peabody Off Hook

It would seem that the Republican State Committee is becoming the secret weapon of the Democratic party in Massachusetts.

First the GOP committee members took Peabody off the hook on which he had placed himself when he recommended a $2600-a-year pay raise for members of the Legislature.

Peabody, obviously astonished at the helping hand extended him from a unlikely quarter, pointed out the matter by issuing a statement praising the Republican State Committee's "statesmanlike approach to this controversial problem."

It was the first time in memory that a Democratic Governor had such kind things to say about the official Republican State organization.

Of course, the GOP committee members never intended to help Peabody out of his dilemma. And they really didn't endorse the legislative pay raise as the newspapers reported.

What the committee members did do was blunder backward into the matter so that such an interpretation could be placed on their action.

A resolution was introduced commending the 34 Republican House members and four GOP Senators who had stood up and voted against the wage hike for themselves and their colleagues.

Instead of sailing through smoothly as its sponsors obviously had expected, the resolution was rejected by a 33-15 vote.

This, in effect, as political observers saw it, was a vote of confidence for the 51 Republican House members and the eight GOP Senators who had supported the raise.

Governor Peabody, who had recommended the $50-a-week increase proposed by a committee he appointed, promptly cut himself in for a piece of the vote of confidence.

After unwittingly bailing out Peabody, the committee members then gave a back-handed slap to ex-Governor Volpe.

What they did in his case was to adopt a new bylaw providing that any Republican candidate who fails to advertise his Republicanism would be denied campaign contributions by the GOP State Committee.

To add a little more confusion to the situation, they stipulated that this rule could be waived by a two-thirds vote of their committee.

This obviously was aimed squarely at Volpe who was elected to the Governorship in 1960 on a "Vote the Man" slogan. Volpe did not emphasize the fact that he was a Republican either in 1960 or 1962 although his party designation appeared below his name on the ballot.

GOP State Chairman Dumaine ruled this bylaw adopted after a highly intriguing procedure. This is what Dumaine did.

He asked all in favor of the motion to so signify. There was a chorus of "ayes", and Dumaine declared the motion adopted.

When it was pointed out to Dumaine that he hadn't bothered to ask if anyone was opposed to the new bylaw, Dumaine asked for a show of hands in opposition. Ten committee members held up their hands as opposed to the motion.

Dumaine again ruled that the motion had been carried. Asked how he knew there were more than 10 members in favor of the motion, the controversial GOP chairman said the voice vote was so loud "that it sounded like a lot more than 10."

That's how the bizarre episode concluded. Nobody really knew how many supported the motion since Dumaine never did call for a show of hands on that side of the issue.

Republican State Committee member Frank Eaton of Needham tried to inject a little common sense into the argument, insisting that the committee members should not undertake to tie the hands of candidates.

But a majority of the committee members — at least as Dumaine interpreted it — voted that they should be the ones to decide whether a candidate will flaunt his Republicanism or play it down.

On the surface it might seem that the committee members were giving Volpe a deserved rebuke for not advertising his Republicanism in 1960.

What was obviously wrong with the committee reasoning is that no candidate for Governor can win election on GOP votes alone. There just aren't that many Republicans in Massachusetts.

Ex-Governor and former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter emphasized repeatedly that Massachusetts is basically a Democratic State and that a Republican candidate for the Governorship or other statewide office had to attract Democratic and Independent voters in order to win election.

Volpe followed Herter's counsel and tried to do exactly that. Massachusetts, it might be added, is even more Democratic today than it was when Herter gave his advice to his fellow Republicans.

Obviously, Volpe didn't believe in either 1960 or 1962 — he had "Vote Republican" printed in tiny letters on his posters last year — that he could fool any Democrats into thinking he was a Democrat.

What Volpe was endeavoring to do was to persuade the people to choose between the individual candidates rather than to vote for party labels. He also was trying to avoid flaunting his Republicanism in the face of Democrats whose votes he was seeking.

The Republican State Committee members either don't know the political facts of life or aren't prepared to face up to them.

Those facts are that they can only win a top State office either (1) when the political tide is running in their favor or (2) when they have a more attractive candidate than the Democrats.

Any GOP candidate for Governor, who campaigns on the basis of party labels next year when two Kennedys will be on the ballot, might just as well save his time and effort.

Needham Priest Describes Coronation of Pope Paul

(The Rev. Mark H. Keohane, pastor of St. Bartholomew's Church in Needham, who attended the recent coronation of Pope Paul in Rome, sent us the following article reporting his experience and reactions at the history-making religious ceremony.)

By The REV. MARK H. KEOHANE

ROME—You may have seen the TV story of the coronation. If so, you saw more than most who were there. You learned the names of the dignitaries present, with a play-by-play report of the meaningful ceremonies. Yet, you would badly need presence to catch the feel, the sounds, the color, the touch of shoulders with the thousands of people.

It was a truly religious ceremony executed with dignity. But, all that you know. Now, looking back, you try to piece together the many parts that made the coronation so exciting, so elusive of words. Here is a small attempt to recreate the human drama that tingled your spine.

To begin, tickets were needed for a good spot if you would not stand for four hours lost in a sea of people. Everyone was angling with whom you know in high places. One angle was a young priest from Everett who is studying for a Doctorate at the North American College, Father John Mahoney.

He had a ticket for the choir because Pope Paul requested that a student from all the nations should sing the Mass. Father John is an old pro at finding strategic places at important Vatican events, so he graciously handed over his music, surplice and ticket just so that this novice would have a good spot.

So, through the guards and barricades we charged until we landed at the main door of St. Peter's, 50 feet from the Papal throne. Through the passage came the dignitaries from all over the world, escorted by the colorful Swiss Guards to their places of honor — Prince Ranier and his lovely Grace (Kelly), the presidents of Liberia and Nigeria, the Japanese ambassador in military dress uniform, and all those whom you must have heard described on TV.

That spot was too good. Other "One-Eyed Connoisseurs" sneaked to this glorious spot of vantage until the Papal Guard drove all of us away. The American student here, who must have learned their tricks crawling under circus tents and at World Series, are skilled masters at gate crashing. Two handsome future Doctors of Theology, one from Alabama, another from Texas, were pointed out by another student as the best in the business, so we tailed them.

The huge bronze door the Pope uses to enter St. Peter's from the palace was barricaded and guarded by a huge Swiss Guard, pike and all. Blandly innocent, smiling Americans crashed that gate while the Swiss eye twinkled. Through the Papal palace we snaked, or sneaked, until behold — there we were on the roof of the colonnade beneath the gigantic statue of St. Francis of Assisi and St. Ignatius, looking down squarely on the Papal altar 25 yards away!

What a picture! A half moon from an evening June sky smiled her moonbeams upon the Twelve Apostles, that semicircle the facade of St. Peter's, who looked down on the Pope's throne. Looking out in the vast area called St. Peter's Piazza, your eyes blinked at a sea of people who had come from all over the world just to be at the coronation.

This could go on and on, but there were two impressions you could only experience by being here. Firstly, at the climax of the whole ceremony, the Tiara, the triple Crown of the Papacy was placed on the head of Paul VI. Its silver gleamed in the moonlight. A hush silenced the crowds. It seemed you could hear only their heart beats.

"Thrill" alone describes the sensation that dominated the countless crowd. Then the pause of silence broke like a huge wave, and applause and shouts of "Viva il Papa" shattered the calm.

But here is the counterpoint. As you know, the warm-hearted Italians express their feelings openly, so delightfully unlike our reserved Americans. Why, even when Pope Paul finished his sermon in eight languages, they applauded. Imagine that at an American church!

After all was over and the Pope was being carried majestically on his portable throne, there was more applause. But note this well — it was warm, genuine, but restrained.

But why? We questioned many about this, and all agreed to the sad, but lovable fact. All are still grieving the loss of Pope John. How they loved him, Jew and Gentile alike. John is dead, but not their love. The new Pope is wonderful, but he is not Pope John. No irreverence is intended, but merely an apt similitude. It is as though your beloved father died, and quickly a kindly step-father comes home!

No doubt Pope Paul will be a worthy successor, but there will never be another lovable John XXIII. Somehow, he was a real Santa Claus, a jovial Grandpa who bounced his children on his knee, told funny stories, gave nickels — and much love.

We could tell you how the crowds broke afterward — Cardinals, Bishops, Princes, Diplomats — all tiredly anxious to get home for a cold drink and a chair. It was so physically and emotionally exhausting. You could be told of the humorous episodes of people wanting water, wanting wheels, wanting home — a quarter of a million of them all at once. You would be interested in the story of a 13-year-old German boy separated from his pilgrimage, without money or clear idea of where he was staying, speaking only German plus school-boy Italian. However, through an Italian priest we met one from Argentina and Brazil plus a German, Latin-speaking taxi driver, and we got him safely home.

What a rewarding experience to assist at a Papal coronation, even though a little gate crashing was in order. It all boils down to a traveler's cliché — "Wish you were here!"

Greets Chaplain Co-ordinator

New Chaplain Coordinator Named At Newton Hospital

Churches and the Newton Wellesley Hospital this week announced the appointment of Rev. Donald W. Manthei as Protestant chaplain and chaplain co-ordinator at the 260-bed community hospital.

Mr. Manthei, (pronounced Mon-tye) is an ordained American Lutheran Church minister. He will spend ten hours weekly at the hospital during July and August. Beginning in September, he will devote approximately 20 hours weekly at the hospital.

He succeeded Rev. William Kingwill, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Newtonville. Mr. Kingwill served for six years as Protestant chaplain at the hospital. He recently relinquished those duties because of the press of activities at his church.

Mr. Manthei was born in Eau Claire, Wisconsin. He received his A. B. Degree from Wartburg College in Waverly, Iowa. A graduate of Waburg Lutheran Seminary in Dubuque, Iowa, he also received a Master's Degree in Psychology and Pastoral Counseling from Boston University.

Presently, he is course assistant at Boston State Hospital in Mattapan and is a doctoral candidate in psychology and pastoral counseling at Boston University. He is married and the father of a daughter.

His practical experience includes participation in the Clinical Training and Chaplaincy Internship Program at Elgin, Illinois State Hospital; Course Assistant in Clinical Pastoral Training at Boston City Hospital; Instructor in the Department of religion at Wartburg College; and various interim pastorates in Iowa and Maine.

His work at the hospital will involve patient visitations, as well as coordinating visits by Protestant clergymen from Newton and Wellesley churches.

For many years, the hospital has been the site of an active chaplaincy program, involving clergymen of the Jewish, Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths.

Auburndale Wins Two Twi Games

Smart pitching and well timed hits gave Auburndale Town Team both ends of a doubleheader with front-running Boston Typos in Suburban Twi play Sunday afternoon on Auburndale Playground.

The scores: First game 5-1, second contest 4-1. Walter Croty pitched for Auburndale for the first game, and Howie Whitmore was on the mound for the second. Both turned in excellent performances, each giving up only four hits.

Little Leaguers Playoff Preps

The Cardinals of the Newton North Little League started last week with a bang in defeating the Indians 10-1 on Albemarle Playground. Billy Henry, right fielder, and Jack Turner, second baseman, drove in two each of the Cardinals' runs.

There was plenty of scoring but the game was less one-sided as, also early in the week, the Dodgers of the same league topped the Yankees 13-9. Al Camarado, Dodgers rightfielder, and Steve Caccia, first sacker, were prominent at the plate, the former driving in four runs and the latter accounting for three.

Here are the Newton West League All-Stars as announced July 9: Colin Clapton, Mike Sturniolo, Steve Ruane, Tom Chalmers, Jerry Coleman, Ralph Murphy, Joe Milewski, Joe LeBrun, John Miledeo, Bob Walsh, Billy Ellingwood, Carl Anderson, Alan Rondina and Norman Westlund.

Alternates named were Sandy Winslow and Dudley Cotton.

The All-Stars will play their first tourney game at Albemarle Playground on Saturday, July 20.

Braves Take 11th Straight

Totem Pole Braves, after 10 straight victories, almost took a licking last Monday night at Albemarle Playground, but class told, and they got themselves four runs in the fifth inning to beat Waban Chiefs 4-2 in a Babe Ruth division game.

In another game in the same division, St. Bernard's Blue Sox took the Elks Red Sox 8-5, thereby accomplishing an upset.

The Thompsonville Raiders beat St. Bernard's White Sox 2-0 in still another contest, the Raiders' Joe LaFredo fashioning a one-hitter.

Centennial Group Appoints Jigger

Robert S. Jigger of 27 Cross St., West Newton, has been made a member of a large committee, made up primarily of past presidents of the Boston Baptist Social Union, now entering its 99th year, to plan a Centennial series of events to be climaxed with a special service and dinner March, 1964.

The Union is the only Baptist organization of its kind in the United States. During the past century it has paid out more than $2,500,000 to indigent churches.

Local GOP In Fund Request From Members

Contributions for the local GOP organization have been sought from all Newton Republicans in a letter sent to them by Stanley Miller, finance chairman for the city committee. Announcement of the letter was made by Edward C. Uehlein, chairman of the Newton Republican City committee.

Chairman Miller states that more funds are needed to meet the expanded programming of the local organization. Plans include a headquarters, staff personnel, improved communications, and educational work.

The funds are also needed, Miller pointed out, to help carry on the work of the recent reorganization program of the Republican City Committee.

Thief And Victim Swap Courtesies

An accommodating householder and an equally obliging burglar were involved in a break at some time during the weekend at 26 Standish Ave., Newton Highlands.

The householder, Charles W. Paspe Jr., was away, but he left a pinch bar in his garage, and the appreciative thief used it to effect an entrance into the house.

Not to be outdone in courtesy, the burglar returned the pinch bar to the place where he found it.

What, if anything, he did take cannot be determined until the householder returns home and makes a check.

City Wants To Know Details On Air Rights

Mayor Donald L. Gibbs and the Board of Aldermen will be interested to see exactly what Chairman William F. Callahan of the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority has in mind for air rights development over the toll road extension in the Newton Corner area, it was intimated last week at City Hall.

With completion of the extension due in 1965, it is up to the chairman to produce concrete and detailed plans for the $12,000,000 development, the mayor said, and pointed out that work on any proposed construction over the highway at Newton Corner will have to be started before the road is completed.

Study of Callahan's final version of his plans by the mayor and the aldermen will necessarily take considerable time, the mayor said, especially in view of the fact that there will have to be a close look at a number of details, including parking facilities sufficient to cover the needs of the buildings proposed.

Last May, when the turnpike chairman came in with a rough sketch of his project, the mayor considered the plans to be "bold and imaginative." The drawings showed high-rise apartments, a motor hotel, a theater and a number of retail stores.

Both the mayor and the aldermen agreed the project seemed feasible, but at this time, with the road's completion due early in 1965, the city is eager to have concrete details before making definite commitments.

Boston "Y" Cites Dr. Knowles As Leader Of Note

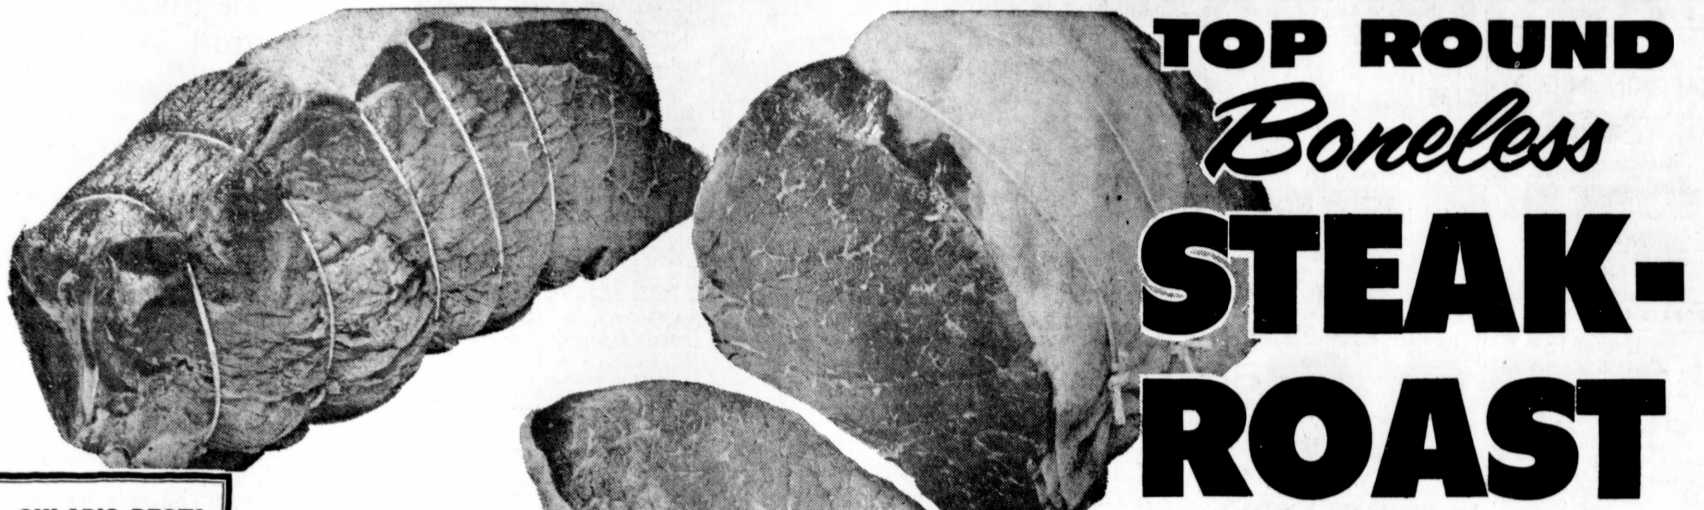

The Huntington Avenue YMCA in Boston accorded high honors to a Newton man at its recent annual meeting. He is Dr. Malcolm Knowles of 53 Beverly Rd., Newton Highlands.

He was given a special Outstanding Leader award by another Newtonite, John Fox of 29 Brewster Rd., Newton Highlands, chairman of the "Y" Board of Directors and vice president of S. S. Pierce Company.

The citation recognized Dr. Knowles as an outstanding leader in the branch's work in long-range planning, adult programming, and as a consultant to the professional staff and employee training committee.

Dr. Knowles is professor of Education and general consultant in Adult Education at Boston University. He is the author of many books in the field of adult education, leadership development and group work. His latest, published last year, was "The Adult Education Movement in the United States."

24 Local Clergymen Favor Supreme Court Prayer Ban

A group of 24 members of the Newton clergy will take a public stand next Sunday in support of the recent Supreme Court decision relative to prayers and Bible reading in the public schools.

In a letter to The Graphic, the Rev. Charles H. Harper, assistant minister of the Eliot Church of Newton, asked this newspaper to print the text of the group's statement, which gives the reasons for its stand in "this, an important issue in our community."

The statement is as follows:

"The undersigned clergymen of the City of Newton go on record as supporting the recent Supreme Court decision declaring unconstitutional religious exercises in the public schools. We support this decision for the following reasons:

"1. We believe it to be an accurate interpretation of both the letter and the spirit of the Constitution of the United States, especially with reference to the guarantees of the First and Fourteenth Amendments.

"2. We believe that underlying this decision is a realistic understanding of the pluralistic character of our society in which no single group should have the power to enforce its religious beliefs and practices on other groups. We believe it to be of great significance that the Roman Catholic, Protestant and Jewish Justices signed the majority decision.

"3. We believe that the Court's decision is not an attack upon religion, but that it is a laudable effort on the part of the Court to protect the religious beliefs of the American people from unwarranted interference from the government either local, state or national.

"4. We believe the Court is correct in affirming that religious training is not the responsibility of the state, but rather of the home, the church and the synagogue.

"5. We believe the Court correctly recognizes the character of genuine religious commitment when it observed that it is the right of every individual freely to choose his own religious beliefs and practices apart from any form of compulsion from the state, either actual or implied.

"6. We believe the Court has correctly interpreted the significance of the Bible in asserting that the reading of the Bible without comment is a religious exercise.

"7. We further concur, and commend the Court for stating that the Bible is PRAYER—(See Page 2)

Much Honored Newton Cadet

Newton Cadet Earns Air Force Awards

Among young local students, recipients of honors at dozens of Commencement exercises now fond memories, is Kenneth L. Weyler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael C. Weyler, 44 Pembroke street, Newton.

He is the proud holder of two separate Air Force awards which he received at the annual ROTC Military Day ceremonies conducted at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, prior to his graduation and commissioning in the U. S. Air Force Reserve.

The first award, the Professor of Air Science Award was presented by Colonel Wesley W. Posvar, USAF, Chairman, Division of Social Sciences, Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colorado. This medal is awarded to the senior cadet demonstrating superior academic and military achievement.

The other award, the Air Force Times Award of Merit is awarded to the senior cadet for notable contributions to morale and esprit de corps.

Cadet Weyler was a Colonel in the Air Force ROTC program and was the Commander of the MIT Cadet Squadron. He is a graduate of Newton High School with the class of 1959. In June, he received his Bachelor of Science degree in Chemical Engineering from MIT.

Galvin, Muther Oppose Peabody

Newton legislators split this week in voting on a proposed constitutional amendment which would give a Governor sweeping powers to reorganize State departments and agencies.

Democratic Senator Michael J. Galvin and Republican Representative Lorenz F. Muther voted against the suggested amendment.

Recorded in favor of it were Democratic Representatives Joseph G. Bradley and Irving Fishman and Republican Representative John W. Whittemore.

Governor Peabody made an all-out fight to win approval of the constitutional amendment which cannot become effective before 1967.

Aldermen In Vote To Halt Long Meetings

Last Monday night's meeting of the Board of Aldermen, like the one before it on Monday, June 24, was interrupted in order that committees could repair to other rooms to conduct their work.

As a result, both meetings occupied an excessively long period of time, much to the displeasure of those Aldermen whose committees managed to finish their work with dispatch, and who therefore had nothing to do but sit around idly for several hours while slower committees delayed the business of the Board as a whole.

But last Monday's meeting was the last such long one, as Alderman Franklin N. Flaschner of Ward 5 had a case of exhausted patience when finally, after two and a half hours of delay, the regular meeting resumed.

He decided to do something about it, and moved that hereafter committees shall resume their Thursday night meetings to conduct their work or, committee chairmen can call meetings at any time prior to the Monday meeting of the Board, provided that their work can be completed prior to the 7:45 p.m. starting time of the Monday meeting of the Board.

Flaschner said that the way things have been going, by the time the member can get around to the docket, they are too tired to do justice to the matters on it. His motion was adopted by a vote of 14 to 7.

Newtonites Line Up At Recent Clinic

170,000 Total Passed In City's Polio Drive

Newton's city-wide campaign for immunization against the dread disease polio reached impressive proportions and established the outstanding record of more than 170,000 feedings of the Sabin oral vaccine, according to the statement this week by City Clerk Monte G. Basbas, chairman of the Newton Citizens

Polio Immunization Committee.

This figure covers feedings for 1962 and 1963 to date. It includes not only the vaccine administered during city-wide clinics held in January, March and May this year, but also feedings given to pre-school children, public, private and parochial school pupils, and the Sabin polio vaccine administered by private physicians in this city during the two year period.

To make this outstanding record possible, a thorough program of planning and organization was necessary.

Clinics were planned by the Citizens Committee to be held at City Hall and selected local school sites.

In reporting the amazing total of feedings accomplished in Newton, Chairman Basbas expressed great praise for his committee members and appreciation to all those who assisted in making the record possible.

"These clinics were most successful," Mr. Basbas stated, "in that thousands of adults in Newton were offered the opportunity and took advantage of the city's offer of immunization vaccine feedings as a protection against polio, both to themselves and their families. In addition, the response to the call for volunteers to operate the clinics was overwhelming."

"More than 1,000 Newton individuals offered and gave their services in the scheduled clinics, and included physicians, nurses, pharmacists and hundreds of citizens, interested in helping to promote this vital health protection program, for the good of everyone in our community."

"Answering the call for assistance in staffing and operating our clinics," Mr. Basbas added, "were organizations and groups that included the Newton Chapter of the American Red Cross, American Legion, Newton

Fireplace To Honor Friend Of Girl Scouts

A memorial fireplace was dedicated in memory of Irving House at Camp Mary Day, a Girl Scout camp in Natick, on July 2.

The fireplace was built with the contributions of former Newton Girl Scouts, who are now part of the Bay Path Colonial Girl Scout Council, Herbert Shaw of Carr Place, Waban, was in charge of the construction.

Mr. House was employed until his retirement by the City of Newton. After retirement he became the ranger at Mary Day, where he served Newton Girl Scouts for many years until his death.

Mr. House was generally beloved by all, especially by "his" girls who feel that this fireplace is a fitting tribute to his memory and years of service.

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Peabody Urges 1967 Reform; Has Proposed None for 1963

A paradoxical aspect to the all-out battle Governor Peabody waged as he tried to win preliminary approval to a proposed constitutional amendment, which would give a Governor greatly increased powers to reorganize the State government, is that Peabody himself hasn't submitted a single reorganization plan to the Legislature this year.

If Peabody has any ideas for revamping any of the State agencies in order to increase their efficiency, it is a curious thing that he hasn't presented them to the Legislature instead of making a furious fight for an amendment to the State Constitution which apparently would be in violation of the Bill of Rights if it were adopted.

Girl Scouts Picked For Summer Project

Two Newton girls, Barbara Leonard, of Newtonville, and Adele Smith, of Newton Highlands, have been selected among eight teenage Girl Scouts from the Bay Path Colonial Girl Scout Council who will participate in a national camping project to be conducted this summer in five states by the national Girl Scout organization.

Miss Leonard will attend the camp located in the State of Washington, Miss Smith, the camp in California. Each will attend their respective camps for 17 days.

Six hundred and twenty-eight girls from every state in the Union have been selected to participate in the program, at camps located in California, Maryland, Michigan, Tennessee and the State of Washington.

Girls are chosen for their excellent camping skills. During their 17 days in camp they will survey potential camping sites, will help develop wildlife sanctuaries, and will help prepare Girl Scout leaders in camping techniques.

They will enjoy cookouts, hikes and games and will meet Girl Scouts from other parts of the United States.

Other girls from the Bay Path Colonial Council who will attend camps are: Janet Davis, Acton, to Maryland; Betsy McElvein, Acton Centre, Amy Watts, Natick, both to Tennessee; Adel Harris, Acton, California; Jeanne Gubser, South Acton, to Washington; Mary Coughlin, West Acton, Michigan.

worthy of study for its historic and literary qualities, and that such study of the Bible or of religion when it is presented objectively as a part of a regular program of education would be consistent with the First Amendment.

"8. We commend the Court for its sensitivity to religious insight as indicated by this passage from the majority decision: 'The place of religion in our society is an exalted one achieved through a long tradition of reliance on the home, the Church and the inalienable citadel of the individual heart and mind. We have come to realize through bitter experience that it is not within the power of government to invade that citadel, whether its purpose or effect be to aid or oppose, to advance or retard.'

The statement was signed by the following: Thomas H. Lehman, Rector, Grace Episcopal Church; H. Lawrence Whittemore, Rector, Church of the Redeemer; Harold M. Momborg, Minister, First Baptist Church in Newton; F. Norman Totten, Minister, Newton Methodist Church; Hamilton M. Gifford, Minister, Newtonville Methodist Church, and Otis R. Fischer, Minister, First Methodist Church in Newton.

Also, Eugene W. Meyer, Minister, Auburndale Congregational Church; James I. Austin, Minister, North Congregational Church; Harold R. Fray Jr., Minister, Eliot Church of Newton; Charles H. Harper, Assistant Minister, Eliot Church of Newton, and Ross Cannon, Minister, The Second Church in Newton.

Other signers, Israel J. Kazis, Rabbi, Temple Mishkan Tefilla; Murray I. Rothman, Rabbi, Temple Shalom; Philip Kieval, Rabbi, Temple Reyim; Albert I. Gordon, Rabbi, Temple Emanuel; Herbert Gezork, president, Andover-Newton Theological School; Wallace Forgey, professor, Andover-Newton, and John M. Billingsky, professor, Andover-Newton.

Still others, S. MacLean Gilmour, Meredith B. Hand-spicker, John H. Scammon, J. Leslie Dunstan and Norman K. Gottwald, all Newton-Andover professors; and Rev. O. James Remington, Lincoln Park Baptist Church.

Sent to The Graphic along with the group's statement was one issued by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The Newton group explained that "While the preceding statement comes only from representatives of the Protestant and Jewish segments of our community, we would call the readers' attention to the statement from the National Conference, which includes representatives of the Roman Catholic Communion as well as those from Jewish and Protestant faiths."

Following is the statement with which the National Conference of Christians and Jews made known its stand: "We treasure the guarantees of the First Amendment of the Constitution and appreciate the role of the Supreme Court in protecting religious liberty. The Court has clarified the relation of the public school to religion. We are obliged to respect and heed this decision.

"The decision does not endorse irreligion or atheism in America. The Court emphatically states its belief that the place of religion in American society is an exalted one. The policy of 'wholesome neutrality,' which the Court asserts 'neither advances nor inhibits religion.' We see no need to amend the Constitution or change the role of the Supreme Court.

"Although devotional exercises are forbidden, the Court clearly allows for the objective study of religion and particularly of the Bible in the public school. Citizens should encourage public school authorities to explore the possibilities suggested by this decision to include within the public school curriculum an understanding of the role of religion in society, culture and history. They should assure school officials the necessary freedom to perform this task in a responsible professional manner.

"We advocate that in a pluralistic society religious and civic groups use the instrumentality of dialogue to resolve conflict. However, we affirm the right of individuals or groups without being subjected to abuse or penalty to appeal to the courts to secure and protect their civil rights.

"The decision challenges parents and religious leaders to shape and strengthen spiritual commitment by reliance on voluntary means and to resist the temptation to rely on governmental institutions to create religious conviction."

Newton Centre Resident Has Part In Play

"On Approval" by Frederick Lonsdale is the third and last production of the Newton Summer Theatre. Ruth Edinberg of Indian Ridge Road, Newton Centre, is prominent in the cast of this comedy which will run from Wednesday, July 24, through Saturday, July 27.

In an unusual departure from the typical summer stock fare, the Newton Summer Theatre has offered three plays in three divergent acting styles demonstrating its own versatility, and its belief that Boston theatre-goers desire both variety and quality in their plays.

"On Approval" has a cast of four and is set in England and Scotland. In the present production, the era is about 1910 — a time that wavered between the elegance of the nineteenth century and the emancipation of the modern age. The acting style is bright and brittle in the manner of Oscar Wilde. The leading roles are played by Tina Morse (seen earlier this season in "Arms And The Man") and Frank Dolan ("Arms And The Man" and "The Chalk Garden.")

Ruth Edinberg is cast as Helen, charming London "pickle heiress." The fourth player is Larry Blumsack, a newcomer to the Newton Company. The play has been directed by Muriel Dolan.

The opening night curtain will be at 8 p.m.; all other nights 8:30 p.m. Reservations may be had by calling DE 2-6700.

Harvard Medical School graduates serving as interns include Richard C. Hutchinson, M.D. of Bedford; Yong Uahwatanasakul, M.D. of Bangkok; and Frances Grommers, M.D. of Boston.

Remaining at the hospital for an additional year of resident education are Walter G. Eberle II, M.D. of Wellesley, a graduate of the University of Arkansas School of Medicine; and Edward F. Walatta, M.D. of Chelsea, a graduate of the University of Bern Medical School.

Joining the hospital for resident education are Dr. Roger R. Dionne of Nashua, N.H., a graduate of the University of Ottawa Medical School, and Dr. Paul G. Foster of Wellesley, a Tufts University Medical School graduate.

Assisting both in the hospital's education program and the surgical staff is Charles M. Levine M.D., appointed a Surgical Fellow for one year. Previously he has been at Boston City Hospital completing his surgical residency.

Spending 12 months at the hospital to qualify for his Master's Degree in Hospital Administration is Alvin S. Topham of Nantucket who attended the Medical College of Virginia. His year at Newton-Wellesley qualifies him for the advanced degree.

Bank To Have Friday Night Opening Hours

The new 300 Moody Street Office of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company will be open each Friday night from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., starting September 6th, according to an announcement made today by Bank President George L. White.

"When this office was recently opened," Mr. White stated, "Many of the 2,000 visitors who attended the Open House requested Friday night banking hours. Due to its location in the heart of the shopping center, we feel that opening this office on Friday nights will be a great convenience to local people as well as to the thousands of out-of-town visitors who shop in Waltham on Friday nights. Several merchants in the area have also asked for this additional service and we are looking forward to complying with their wishes."

The Newton-Waltham Bank, which is one of the largest commercial banks in suburban Boston, has branch offices in Newton, Waltham, Wayland and Weston.

Pass Civil Service Test

Two Newton residents passed a state civil service examination for the rating of senior clerk and stenographer in the Newton Public Buildings Department. They were Ruth F. Hindenlang of 53 Canterbury road, Newton Highlands, and Mary A. Mullen of 69 Cummings road, Newton Centre.

Four women in all took the test and all passed.

Lad's Bike Eats Up Miles Fast

Should train wheels never roll again, Douglas Porter of 236 Auburn St., Auburndale, a Newton High sophomore, has a reliable transportation that could serve as an alternative.

Recently, when he wanted to visit a friend in East Brewster, 100 miles away, he got there in what some folks might consider the hard way—aboard a bicycle. He pushed his bike over the roads from Auburndale to the Cape in five hours flat. What's more, he returned the same way, but not on the same day.

The friend, G. Howard Hayes lives at 26 Fairfax St., West Newton, except in the summer, when his address is Winslow Landing, East Brewster.

A noted Newton resident will shortly follow the example set by certain other nationally prominent fathers of growing families, and establish residence on Cape Cod.

Sale of the property for $40,000 was filed in the Middlesex Registry of Deeds. Mrs. Mary A. Piersall was listed as the seller, and Jack R. and Lora H. Tessman as the buyers.

Jim, who now plays for the Mets, New York City's National League team, will move with Mrs. Piersall and all the youngsters, to the Cape as soon as work is completed on a home being built for them there.

Senate President John E. Powers, one of the keenest students of State government on Beacon Hill, has been unfairly accused of doing an about-face on Peabody's reorganization proposal and has been criticized in some quarters for supposedly voting against reform.

What actually happened was this: The bill as drafted by Peabody's aides was a poor one and had some obvious flaws in it.

When the measure was up for initial consideration by the Legislature several weeks ago, Powers agreed to help keep it alive so that perfecting changes might be made in it to put it in proper form.

Counsel for both the Senate and House at a subsequent conference, however, declared that the measure was unconstitutional since it violated the provision for the separation of powers between the legislative and executive branches of the government.

It was then that Powers decided he had no alternative except to oppose Peabody's proposal.

Under the provisions of the amendment which Peabody sought to have written into the State Constitution, a Governor in certain circumstances could legislate by executive mandate. That, of course, is unconstitutional.

What seems most preposterous about the whole controversy was that Peabody put on a big drive to try to make it easier for the Governor holding office in 1967 to reorganize the State government, but he himself has made no effort whatever to reorganize anything in 1963.

If Peabody feels a reorganization should be pushed through, why doesn't he present it to the Legislature and fight for it NOW?

Governor Peabody is trying to establish some kind of record for reforms in the State Constitution which would become effective either 1965, 1967 or 1969.

If things go as expected, for example, the Governor chosen in 1966 would be elected for a four-year term, and in 1970 the candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor would run as a team as do the President and Vice President.

Those may be desirable changes, but to this onlooker they're not earth-shattering reforms. Almost any suggested revision in the Constitution, it seems, is labelled as a "reform."

It's possible, of course, that Peabody is playing shrewd politics in placing so much emphasis on these so-called long-range constitutional reforms.

But when he stands for a second term next year, the people will be expecting him to report on what he accomplished while serving as their Governor.

That's why Beacon Hill observers are wondering why Peabody doesn't place more stress on getting something done in 1963 and 1964 instead of 1967 when somebody else is very likely to be sitting in the Governor's chair.

A highly successful executive who could occupy himself profitably with his own extensive business interests, Volpe is not willing to allow his political career to end with a defeat suffered by a wafer-thin margin.

Volpe is a very proud man. His loss to Peabody came as a terrific shock to him. He feels that he could have won reelection to a second term in the Governorship if he had done things a little differently and had not taken quite so much for granted.

He will face a stiff fight at next June's Republican conclave.

An attempt seemingly is already being made in some GOP quarters to cut him down and lessen his chance of achieving the right to run as the Republican candidate for Governor.

The recent action of the Republican State Committee in voting to withhold campaign funds from any GOP candidates who fail to advertise their Republicanism was obviously aimed at Volpe.

While Volpe is out of favor with certain elements in his own party, he will have some factors working for him when the battling starts for the endorsement of the 1964 GOP State conclave.

These include his reputation as a powerful vote-getter and the fact that he won the Governorship in 1960 when President Kennedy carried the State by half a million votes.

The Republican party will need a sturdy candidate for Governor next year when both President Kennedy and Senator Edward M. Kennedy will be on the ballot and will be generating a Democratic tide in the State.

Volpe's prospective opponents for the GOP gubernatorial endorsement will include State Senator Philip A. Graham of Hamilton, former U. S. Attorney Elliot L. Richardson of Brookline and possibly former Congressman Laurence Curtis.

At this stage Volpe looms as the probable favorite although the picture will not crystallize for another nine or ten months, and there is no certainty as to who will be in the field against him or how the battle lines will be drawn.

Perry Makes Impact While Out of Office

Ex-Representative Francis W. Perry of Duxbury no longer holds any elective office as a result of his defeat for the Lieutenant Governorship last November. The only public position he now fills is that of $1-a-year consultant to Attorney General Edward W. Brooke.

Yet, Perry is making his impact felt on Beacon Hill to a greater extent than most elected officials.

Governor Peabody, for example, moved swiftly to suspend the indicted chairman of the State Housing Board after Perry sharply prodded him on the matter in a hard-hitting public statement.

Leo F. Benoit was indicted on May 10, but he continued as head of the State Housing Board for two full months.

On Monday of last week Perry issued a statement charging that Peabody had "procrastinated far too long" in taking steps to suspend Benoit under the provisions of a new law which Perry himself authored last year.

Perry's statement was published in newspapers across the state on Tuesday, and on Wednesday Peabody suspended Benoit.

It was Perry, of course, who initiated and personally pressed the investigation which resulted in the indictment of suspended Waterways Director Rodolphe G. Bessette, whose appeal from his conviction is now before the Supreme Court.

No Republican legislator in recent years has made his mark

Lawyer-Judges Wear Two Hats

Governor Peabody and the Legislature have an opportunity to end a situation under which some members of the legal profession wear two hats and alternately serve as lawyers and part-time judges.

A bill supported by the Massachusetts Trial Lawyers Association would require these lawyer-judges to choose one hat or the other.

Those who so desired would become full-time district court judges after a specified period of time, and those who preferred to remain in the private practice of law would be required to divest themselves of their judicial robes.

It certainly does not promote the ends of justice in Massachusetts for these men to be presiding over a courtroom one day as a judge and appearing in it the next day as an attorney to argue a case.

At a time when there is so much talk about conflicts of interest, it seems almost incredible that this obvious conflict should be permitted to continue and flourish.

Enactment of the bill backed by the Trial Lawyers Association would correct an unhealthy condition which is bad both for the judicial system and the legal profession in Massachusetts.

Rockefeller Fights To Get Back in Race

New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller now obviously is trying to fight his way back into the thick of the contention for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Rocky's political stock has dropped twice, the first time after his divorce, again after his remarriage.

He was able to make a comeback after his divorce, but the odds now seem more heavily against him.

At this stage Arizona's Senator Barry Goldwater appears to be clearly the front-runner in the GOP Presidential sweepstakes even though there are still doubts in some quarters that he really wants to give up his seat in the U. S. Senate to gamble on defeating President Kennedy.

But if Goldwater for any of a number of reasons does not become the Republican Presidential standard-bearer, it is improbable that the GOP would turn again to Rockefeller.

Senator Thruston Morton of Kentucky and freshman Governor George Romney of Michigan both are more likely prospects than Rocky who has lost much of his political lustre.

Style Corner

The parade grounds are full of men who today are forming up into a solid phalanx of smart looks to repel sloppiness. If ever there was a period in our history when sloppy clothes were out and good appearance was in, this is that time.

Reason is that all other nations look to us for leadership in all things. And they aren't about to fall in behind a bunch of rag-tag-and-bobtail leaders.

For those who are looking for an outfitter for this new men's fashion parade, why not try Jacques, which opens at 345 Washington Street in Newton Corner about the middle of August.

Jacques isn't opening a brand new store dedicated to the finest brands in men's wear for any other reason than it intends to sell these fine men's garments to this area's men of good taste and discrimination.

In a nutshell, the Jacques philosophy can be described as "of the best and for the best." Jacques will offer known brands of consistent excellent quality and workmanship for this area's discerning men. To this merchandise, Jacques' personnel will impart their basic fashion sense and valuable know-how in good fit.

So, when the "drums go bang and the cymbals clang," there will be many men who will step out smartly in the front ranks of good grooming. But first they'll muster and fall in . . . at Jacques when it opens next month.

Dress right . . . front . . . right face . . . forward haunch . . . hup, twup, thrup, fwup, hup, twup, thrup, fwup.

The hearing was held at a regular meeting of the Aldermen on Monday, June 3. The matter was discussed at considerable length. The owner and his attorney took no position, but assured the Board they would abide by any decision it made, whether it was in favor of demolition or rehabilitation.

A spokesman for the five companies that had insured the property against fire damage told the Board that the insurers had appraised the fire damage and were of the opinion that reconstruction was feasible and that it could be accomplished at less cost than would be occasioned should the property be declared a total loss.

The hearing came to an end and the Aldermen decided that they should take no action at that time that would put the Board in the position of acting as a collection agency for the owner in his negotiations with the insurers.

In the interval between the hearing and Monday night's meeting, the reports of the insurance companies were studied and, Alderman Harry H. Ham Jr., chairman of the committee on Claims and Rules, explained at last Monday night's meeting, his committee examined the fire damage in company with the building commissioner.

As a result, he said the committee voted unanimously that the owner should be ordered to tear the building down. "The controversy between the owner and the insurance companies is not our concern," he declared.

"To all these fine groups and individuals go the sincere thanks of the city officials sponsoring the polio prevention program, as well as the thanks of all Newton citizens who received the feedings at the clinics."

In answer to many inquiries as to whether or not the city will sponsor and operate "make-up" clinics, Dr. Henry M. Greenleaf, Newton director of Public Health, reported, "Despite the extensive school and clinic program carried out, we have had numerous calls asking about a makeup clinic for individuals that missed one or more of the three types of Sabin oral vaccine feedings. The Board of Health feels that a makeup clinic is not warranted."

"However," Dr. Greenleaf added, "I sincerely hope that those who missed one or more immunization feedings will go to their private physicians to complete their series of all three types. Most of Newton's druggists now have the Sabin oral vaccines in individual dose form and immunization can be arranged by the private physician."

He Has Shed 'Bad' Guy' Image

Ernest Borgnine is glad to be out of the "bad-man-role rut."

The man who, as a "heavy," inspired one director to say he could turn a smile into "a chilling turn full of menace" is grateful to his starring role on ABC-TV's "McHale's Navy" for his new image.

In the July 16 issue of Look magazine, in a story about the show and its star, Borgnine asks: "Who wants to be hated all the time?"

The story points out that it was not too long ago that Borgnine "was outrageous and terrifying millions as one of filmdom's greatest 'heavies'— the knife-and-club-wielding sergeant in 'From Here to Eternity' and the evil ranch-hand torpedo in 'Bad Day at Black Rock.' Now he's not hated anymore.

Sidney Lanfield, a director of the show, says: Ernie is the nicest man I've ever worked with. When he says, 'Hello! How are you?' or 'Glad to see you!' you can bet the line has not been rehearsed."

No matter how congenial he is, Borgnine was not immediately taken with the idea of doing a television comedy, according to Look. "At first," he says, "I thought, 'Me in a situation comedy? You're nuts.' But I soon found it to be as satisfying as anything I'd ever done. Every week something different happens—and it's up to me to see that it comes off."

Peace Corps Examination On July 20

Another Peace Corps placement test will be administered Saturday, July 20, at 8:30 a.m. at Room 100, Baker Library, Harvard School of Business Administration, Soldiers Field road.

The non-competitive test must be taken by anyone interested in becoming a Peace Corps Volunteer. This will be the last testing opportunity for persons who hope to enter training for a Peace Corps assignment in September or October.

Those selected for training will spend 10 to 12 weeks on a college campus or at a Peace Corps camp in Puerto Rico, studying the language, history and culture of their host country, and American affairs.

Volunteers agree to serve two years in the Peace Corps, including training time. The minimum age for volunteer service is 18. There is no upper age limit, and a number of persons in their seventies are among the 5000 volunteers now serving in 45 nations.

Married couples may serve if they have no dependents and if both husband and wife qualify for the same project.

Language training is helpful for those interested in becoming volunteers, but more than a fourth of the Peace Corps' present volunteers never had studied a language previously.

Liberal arts graduates and others with a "general" education have performed so well in teaching and community development programs that the Peace Corps is seeking more persons with this type of background.

The Peace Corps also has requests for persons with skills in agriculture, public health, forestry, carpentry and other building skills, social work, and education of all types and at all levels.

Teen Time Topics BY DOT DUNN

Dear Dot:
I am 16. I have known Dave for about four months. We are not going steady but we like each other a lot. His birthday is in another month. Is it proper for me to give him a gift? If so please give me a suggestion. T. M.

Dear T. M.:
It's so normal to wish to give someone you like a birthday present. It's quite all right in this case if you remember just two things. Keep the gift impersonal and very inexpensive. One of his favorite records always make a big hit. Another good idea is to find a book he wants.

Dear Dot:
My hair seems to have lost its ability to hold a set. My doctor tells me that I am healthy and so is my hair. Have you any suggestion? I need help. E. S.

Dear E. S.:
Yes I do have one idea about your problem. I'll bet you have been setting it yourself. You may be pulling it too tight when winding it on rollers while wet. Be extra careful of this because each strand can stretch one-and one-half times its normal length when wet. This way it really loses its tendency to stay in place and becomes limp. Next time when you are setting it, hold your hair so that it is not pulled up at the roots and not stretched over the rollers. Be sure that you secure it in place. I predict that healthy hair will do you justice when handled correctly.

Dear Dot:
I'm 18. I've just graduated from high school. My father gave me a new car. I just love it but he refuses to allow me to drive it in the evening after dark. Don't you think he should at least allow me to drive until 9:30? K. G.

Dear K. G.:
First of all I think you should count your blessings. You have a very considerate, understanding and most generous father. He must feel that you are a very reliable person to allow you the use of your own car during the day-time hours. Why not accept this graciously and prove that you are able to earn the privilege of night-time driving. I really don't think that he is too worried about his daughter's driving. It appears that he is trying to protect you from some of the drivers who have little or no responsibility. You are lucky you know.

Dear Dot:
I've been invited to the sea shore for a week-end in August. Please tell me what to take in the line of clothing. M. S.

Dear M. S.:
Try to keep your clothing needs down to a minimum. The most important items include one bathing suit (drip dry if possible); 2; pair of shorts, 2 blouses, one pair of slacks in case of a cold spell, one dress (basic), one sweater and a rain-shine coat.

Dr. Rouser To Preach Union Service Sunday

Dr. Arthur A. Rouser, Jr., of the Colonial Church, Edina, Minn., and former minister of the Eliot Church of Newton, will be the preacher at Newton Methodist and Eliot Churches to be held on Sunday, July 21st, at 10 o'clock at the Eliot Church.

Before coming to the Eliot Church, Dr. Rouser served as minister of the First Congregational Church of Christ, Williamsburg, Mass.

He was graduated from Harvard College in 1951 and received his B.D. degree from Union Theological Seminary in 1954. He received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from Piedmont College in Georgia this past June.

Playgrounds Aid Jimmy Fund Here

"Carnival Days" are being held on the various Newton Playgrounds this week with the proceeds to be turned over to the Jimmy Fund, according to a release this week from the Newton Recreation Department.

Carnival games in evidence at many of the playgrounds include: Pop Bottle Fishing, Muffin Pan Toss, Nail Driving, Paper Plate Toss, Golf Tee Ten Pins, Ring Toss, Clothes Pin Drop, Water Pistol Cannon Shoot, etc. These and many other variations of these type of skill games will be enjoyed by the youngsters.

The children built their own booths using tables, chairs, rope and stakes, mattresses, boxes, orange crates, strapping and the like to guarantee the success of their carnival.

Some playgrounds have a White Elephant Table, home-made food concessions and also soft drink concessions.

The public and in particular parents of the playground children are invited to participate in this theme of the week "Carnival Day."

Cold Spring Playground had its Carnival on Tuesday as did Angier and Richardson combined at Angier. Lower Falls or Hamilton School also had theirs on Tuesday and Carr Playground.

Yesterday saw carnivals at the following Williams and Auburndale Playgrounds, Highlands Playground, Ward Playground, Memorial Playground, Boyd, Hawthorn and Victory combined at Boyd.

Today, Thursday - West Newton Common, Davis, and River St. Playgrounds will combine with Wellington Playground starting at 1:30 p.m. with a teenage hop scheduled in the evening from 6:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Burr Park and Thompsonville will also hold theirs today as will Stearns Playground, Newton Centre, Emerson, and Upper Falls combined at Upper Falls.

On Friday, the following will hold their Carnival Day - Murray Rd., Franklin, Peirce and Warren combined at Peirce, Albemarle, High School, Farlow Park and Cabot.

Recreation Commissioner, John B. Penney and Supervisors Lillian Swartz, James E. Murphy, Robert Doherty, and William Barry have added this message in support of the Carnival Days.

"We are the fortunate people. We are having a wonderful summer of fun and activity at our respective playgrounds. We are enjoying good health and healthful recreation.

"Because we are so fortunate and because we know that there are those less fortunate than we are, it seems proper that we should try to share with others.

"The Jimmy Fund is now holding its Annual Fund Program. Newton children are invited to share in this program during this week at Carnival Days on the various playgrounds.

"Each leader in charge will encourage all to bring 10c or more to be given to the Jimmy Fund from the children on the Newton Playgrounds.

"Your share will help in research and will help some boy or girl who needs the help of all the Jimmys that we know.

George Wight Retires As Head Of Glee Club

George H. Wight, 25 Moreland avenue, Newton Centre, president of the Highland Glee Club of Newton since 1923, has announced his retirement as the club's president.

Mr. Wight has been a member of the Highland Glee Club for 48 years, the last 40 of which he has served as its president. During his 48 years with the club he has sung in every concert and has missed only one rehearsal.

Under his leadership, over the years, the Highland Glee Club has achieved tremendous success and is regarded by many as the outstanding male chorus in New England.

As the club historian, the Rev. Raymond S. Carman, once wrote "George has lifted the club to the level of a prestige institution." The club at times has boasted a singing membership of 120 voices with an average attendance of 90 singers on stage for the concerts.

They have appeared in concerts throughout New England and in New York. Besides making records in New York they had been heard on New England broadcasting stations and in Australia where taped recordings have been sent for public presentation.

There are three reasons for the Highland Glee Club's successes and prestige. They are: 1) The high degree of musical culture reflected by the quality of the music presented in its programs; 2) The caliber of its music directors; and, 3) The ability of its president, Mr. Wight, to recognize talented young musicians destined for stardom and engaging them to appear with the club as guest artists.

The long list of such artists includes: John Charles Thomas, Richard Crooks, Royal Dammun, Ruth Diehl, Gladys Kuchts, Ade Addison, Albert Stoessel, and Robert Patterson who was recently granted a long term contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Mr. Wight says about such artists, "We like to use the best talent available and we like to get them on the way up when we can afford them."

Study Pends On Gas Stations Extra Activity

Chairman Theodore D. Mann of the Aldermanic committee on Franchises and licenses told the Board Monday night that there had been a number of complaints that gasoline service stations in this area were conducting business other than the one for which they were established.

His committee, therefore, he said, would undertake an investigation of the stations in the city to determine whether the ordinances need strengthening to tighten their control. In line with the study, the alderman closely questioned a spokesman Monday for a petition brought by Sun Oil Company for changes at an existing Newton Highlands service station.

Bones For A Year Of Study In Scandinavia

Daniel F. Wood, 20, of 29 Calvin Rd., Newtonville, will return to Beloit College next spring for his senior year, and then will enter graduate school in preparation for a college teaching career.

Meantime, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Wood is doing a lot of background reading on Scandinavia and diligently studying the Danish language, because Aug. 4 he departs for a year of study in Denmark under the auspices of the Scandinavian Seminar for Cultural Studies.

Wood's major field of study will be Scandinavian art and ceramics, fields in which Denmark is a world leader. The pre-trip course of study is a must because the seminar bases its program on complete submersion of the student in the life of the host country.

Following a short orientation course, he will live with two Danish families for a month each in an effort to acquire fluency in the language as quickly as he can.

GEORGE H. WIGHT

He has traveled to New York, Philadelphia, Canada, and other distant points at his own expense to hear and talk with young artists of promise. Mr. Wight is well known in the top music circles in Boston and New York.

Not only has Mr. Wight led the Highland Glee Club to prominence but he has also been an outstanding supporter and an executive officer of the New England Federation of Men's Glee Clubs, out of which grew the Associated Glee Clubs of America Inc.

Home Economist To Tour Russia

Miss Margaret M. McPherson, 21 Linwood avenue, Newtonville, is among eight United States home economists scheduled to visit the Soviet Union early in August to inspect institutions related to family life.

The tour, believed to be the largest group of women from one profession ever to go to the U.S.S.R., is made up of members of the American Home Economics Association, headquartered in Washington, D. C.

Leading the group, which left New York on July 18 and returns August 15, will be Mrs. Florence W. Low, AHEA president and assistant director for home economics of the Texas Extension Service.

Miss McPherson is assistant director of Home Service for the Boston Gas Co.

First major stop on the tour is the Tenth International Congress of Home Economics in Paris, July 22 to 27. After the Paris Congress, the group will visit Copenhagen, Stockholm, and Helsinki where they will study new patterns of family life.

The home economists will fly from Helsinki to Leningrad August 6 on a special flight by Aeroflot, the Russian airline. They will be in Leningrad August 7 and in Moscow August 8, 10 and 11.

The program in the Soviet cities will be completely arranged by Introurist, a functionary of the Russian government, but details of the program planned were lacking at

Kaufman Law Will Reduce Estate Cost

The latest issue of the Boston Bar Journal features an article by Attorney Hyman Mendel Kaufman of 6 Stoneleigh Road, West Newton. The article deals with a newly enacted Massachusetts statute of which Kaufman is the author. The new legislation becomes effective July 30.

The Kaufman law will permit a person in his will to forestall the expense of having a total stranger appointed periodically by the Probate Court as "guardian ad litem."

Such a guardian ad litem is paid out of the estate, to represent unborn grandchildren or remote unspecified relatives. The latter may never actually inherit anything under the will.

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Political Theorists Bemoan Peabody's Use of Patronage

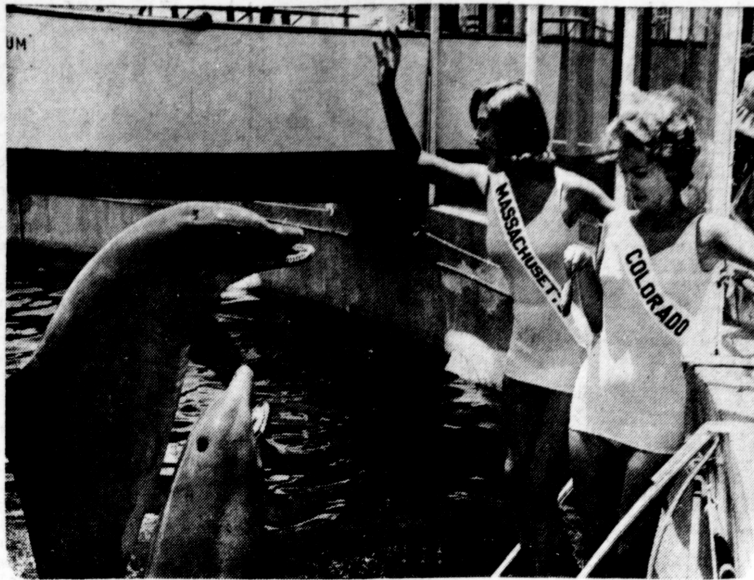

Some readers have written in to suggest that this department has been too harsh in its appraisals of Democratic Governor Endicott (Chub) Peabody and Republican State Committee Chairman Frederic C. (Buck) Dumaine, Jr. They think a few kind words would be in order for Messrs. Peabody and Dumaine.

A number of political theorists who loudly applauded Governor Peabody for obtaining initial legislative approval of the proposed reorganization amendment to the State Constitution also are expressing shocked dismay that Peabody's prestige victory was accomplished by trading jobs and other favors in return for votes.

They consider it's a little inconsistent to fight for reform in government with the tools of political patronage. Perhaps they have a point. It does seem somewhat incongruous.

But first let's take the cases of Peabody and Dumaine.

Baptist Pastor Answers Verdict of 24 Ministers

The Rev. D. A. Waite, Th.D., Ph.D., pastor of Faith Baptist Church in Newton, has replied to a news story in the Graphic last Thursday.

The Rev. Waite's answer actually is addressed to the 24 Newton clergymen who publicly affirmed support for the U. S. Supreme Court's decision on prayer in the public schools, in the Graphic story. The story also appeared in other local newspapers. Rev. Waite's answer follows:

"On or about Thursday, July 18, 1963, in three newspapers there appeared, on the front pages, an article concerning the support on the part of 23 or 24 local clergymen of the Supreme Court's June 17 banning of voluntary Bible reading in the States of Maryland and Pennsylvania.

"At a business meeting of the church, on Thursday, July 18, FAITH BAPTIST CHURCH in Newton, passed, by unanimous vote of the regular members present and voting, a motion to answer these local clergymen, and to protest the Supreme Court's decision banning the reading of the Bible in these two States, and instructed their pastor, the Reverend Doctor D. A. Waite, to represent the church in writing such protest, requesting of the papers involved to print it on their front pages, if possible, of the first edition after receiving it.

"Feeling that many of these views are representative of those of a great number of other Americans, whether Protestant, Roman Catholic, or Jewish, who, along with us, do not share either the sentiments expressed by these local clergymen in their entirety, or of the Supreme Court in this issue, we the members of FAITH BAPTIST CHURCH in Newton, respectfully request that you print the following statement in the interest of fairness and the public interest in this most important question that deals with the morals of our nation.

"The Decision Was A Wrong Decision. We believe that the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling on June 17, 1963, barring required recitation of prayer and Bible readings in public schools in the two States of Maryland and Pennsylvania, was a wrong decision, legally, logically, strategically, Constitutionally, and morally.

"The First Amendment of our United States Constitution guarantees for each citizen that: 'Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof . . . ' If such action is prohibited from Congress, why should the Supreme Court of the United States prohibit

83rd Birthday, Navy Release Same Day

Dr. Roy G. Hoskins of Waban combined two memorable occasions recently when he retired from government service and marked his 83rd birthday on the same day.

He retired as biological sciences consultant to the Boston Branch Office of the Naval Research Service at the Navy building, Boston, after being associated with the office since 1948.

Dr. and Mrs. Hoskins, who reside at 86 Varick road in Waban, took part in a cake cutting ceremony to mark the joint observance.

Tough Campaigns Shape Up For Fall

Lively battles for a number of places on the Board of Aldermen and School Committee will be waged in the fall municipal election.

Whether Mayor Donald L. Gibbs will be opposed for reelection to a third term is uncertain.

Friends of Herbert L. Conolly, well known automobile dealer and candidate for the democratic nomination for lieutenant governor last year, declare that there still is a possibility he may challenge Gibbs.

Activity on the city's political front picked up as the prospective candidates circulated nomination papers in quest of the necessary signatures to have their names placed on the ballot.

Sept. 10 is the deadline for filing nomination signatures with the City Election Commission for certification.

Busiest group politically in the city are the opponents of fluoridation who are engaged in a drive to secure 2500 valid signatures in order to place the question of repealing the present fluoridation statute before the voters in the November election.

Under the procedure which is followed, the anti-fluoridation forces prepared their own petitions since no official forms are available to them.

When they submit their petitions to the election board, however, the wording of the question will be reviewed by Election Commission Arthur G. Heaney and City Solicitor Matt B. Jones to ascertain whether it is fairly and properly phrased.

Several Aldermen have indicated their intention of retiring from office at the end of this year, and hot fights are expected for the seats they will relinquish.

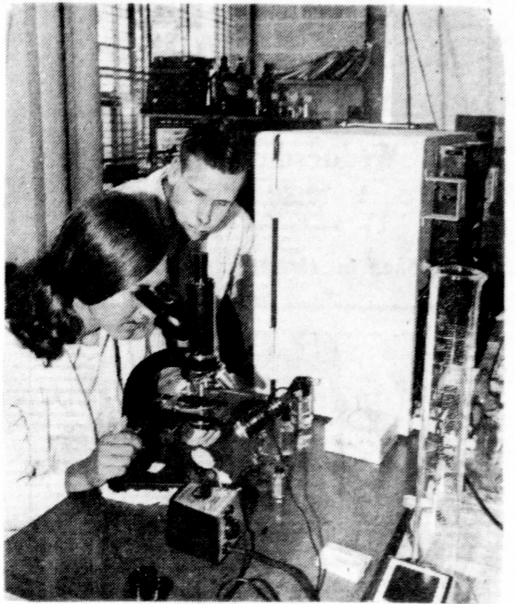

One development this week saw former Ward Alderman

Warren A. Sutherland of Auburndale announce that he will be a candidate for Alderman-at-Large from Ward 4.

This was interpreted in political quarters as meaning that veteran Alderman

Earle D. Wood of Auburndale will not be a candidate for reelection.

Wood, who is completing his 14th year on the Board of Aldermen, is chairman of the Aldermanic Finance Committee

Students Look Into Things

Newton high school seniors, Naomi Corman, deeply engrossed with microscope, while Norman Klein awaits a report, are participants in the Life Science Program being held this summer at Brandeis University.

Local Seniors Keep Active In Summer

Vacation time is here for most school youngsters, but two Newton seniors are among six from this area who have not relinquished their grip on the books.

Dr. Philip A. St. John, assistant professor of biology and head of the program, says it is hoped that the students "will take the modern scientific approach back to school with them."

The program lasts seven weeks but many students, according to Dr. St. John, continue on through the summer because of their interest in the work.

The two students are, Naomi L. Corman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Corman, 11 Andrew St., Newton, a senior at Newton South High; and Norman W. Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon A. Klein, 355 Lexington St., Auburndale, a senior at Newton High School.

The students are selected jointly by Brandeis and their respective high schools to be a part of the summer study program.

The program sponsored by the National Science Foundation, brings the students into biochemistry and biology laboratories where they spend the eight-hour day working on research projects under the direct supervision of Brandeis science faculty members.

The research involves such areas as developmental and genetic mechanisms of plants, animals and microorganisms; metabolic and enzymatic systems; comparative embryology; and radiation biology.

Former Alderman Warren A. Sutherland announced today that he will be a candidate for Alderman-at-Large in next fall's municipal election.

GOP Club To Conduct New Member Drive

Wallace F. Forbes, president of the Newton Republican Club, today announced that the club would soon launch a new program for the enrollment of new members in its ranks. The club, now one of the largest and most influential in New England, seeks to double its membership.

Mr. Forbes stated that William R. Haney, who has been identified with the club for many years, will be chairman of the Committee directing the program.

In making the announcement, Mr. Forbes stated also, that: "Newton is currently experiencing a revitalization of new, aroused leadership within its Republican ranks."

The purpose of our organization is to encourage the upsurge now evident and to assist the Republican Party in effectively carrying the message of good government to the electorate at large."

Sutherland Seeks Return As Alderman

Former Alderman Warren A. Sutherland announced today that he will be a candidate for Alderman-at-Large in next fall's municipal election.

Sutherland declared that he is standing for the Aldermanic Board at the request of his neighbors in Auburndale and residents in other sections of Newton.

He retired from the Board of Aldermen a little less than two years ago after six years of service as a city father and at that time was appointed by Mayor Donald L. Gibbs as a member of the Newton Planning Board on which he is currently serving.

A life-long resident of Auburndale, Sutherland lives at 40 Williston road with his wife Gertrude and their six sons.

Active in civic affairs, Sutherland is a former president of the Williams School P.T.A. and recently was elected treasurer for the coming year.

Sutherland is a vice president of the State Street Bank and Trust Company of Boston in the Investment and Financial Planning Division, with responsibility of Bank Portfolio and supervision of the bank's Municipal

PTA Creative Arts Groups Sponsor 'The Soldier's Tale'

An outstanding musical event will be presented by the Newton Creative Arts Summer School, under the sponsorship of the Newton PTA Creative Arts Committee, Tuesday evening, July 30, at 8:30, in Newton South High School.

Stravinsky's "L'Histoire Du Soldat," one of the composer's most important works, is seldom performed because of the wide range of talents required. First presented in 1918, it is a hybrid composition meant to be read, played and danced. It employs a narrator who describes the contents and evolution of the plot while scenic pictures interspersed in the text serve as illustrations of the story.

The performance will be under the direction of Robert L. Koff, associate professor at Brandeis University. He has received the Laurel Leaf from the Society for the Advancement of American Music, and is a founding member of the Julliard String Quartet, with which he performed for 11 years, recording and traveling in the U. S., Canada and Europe. A lecturer on methods of music education for children, Professor Koff has also produced a series of programs for educational television.

Prof. Edwin B. Pettit, department chairman of Theater Arts at Brandeis, will narrate. A prolific author, he will be remembered for his TV series, "Laughter Is a Funny Business."

Gus Solomons Jr., like Prof. Koff, a staff member of the Newton Creative Arts Summer School, will have the role of "The Devil." A man of many talents, he is known in this area for his performance with the Dancemakers Group, with whom he appeared on TV and at the Boston Arts Festival. He is a capable pianist and painter as well.

John J. Sommers, Theatre Arts instructor at Brandeis, plays "The Soldier." Carole Pastore, also a member of the summer school's staff, and a soloist with the Boston Dance Theatre, will play "The Princess." She is a Boston Conservatory staff member.

The orchestra will have Robert Koff, violin; Natalo Paella, trumpet; John Miller, bassoon; William Curtis, double bass; Felix Viscuglia, clarinet; William Tesson, trombone, and Everett Beale, percussion.

Tickets will be sold at the door and at the following schools today (Thursday) and tomorrow from 10:30 to noon: Newton and Newton South High Schools, Weeks and Day Junior High Schools and the Mason-Rice School.

Mrs. Daniel Bernstein, DE 2-5975, will supply further information on tickets.

Nine Students To Graduate In Nursing Course

Charles W. Dudley, director of Newton Junior College, announces that nine Associate in Science graduates will receive nursing certificates and pins as members of the third graduating class in the Nursing Curriculum. Convocation exercises will be held at College Hall, Washington Park, Saturday, July 27, at 3:00 p.m.

Mr. Dudley will preside at the exercises. Dr. Robert Senior of the Department of Social Studies will offer the convocation, and Edward Kovar, director of Health Services, United Community Services, will extend greetings to the graduates.

The Convocation address will be delivered by Jean A. Curran, M.D., Senior Consultant and Trustee, Bingham Associates Fund, Pratt Clinic, New England Center Hospital. He is a graduate of Carleton College in Minnesota and the Harvard Medical School.

He has taught at Cornell Medical College, New York University College of Medicine, and State University of New York College of Medicine. He has held prominent administrative positions in China, at the State University of New York College of Medicine, and at the Long Island College of Medicine, where he served as President from 1942 to 1950. He has been consultant for the Rockefeller Foundation, the War Manpower Commission, various World Health Organizations, and the United States Operations Mission.

Dr. Charles D. Merrill, Dean of the College, and Miss Virginia O. Allen, chairman of the Nursing Department, will award certificates and pins to the graduates.

The Nursing Program at Newton Junior College, A Regional Nursing Program, is sponsored by the United Community Services Health Division as part of a regionalization study financed by the United States Public Health Service in 1959, and has been approved by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Board of Registration in Nursing.

approved by the Newton School Committee and the Massachusetts Board of Collegiate Authority, requires two academic years and one six-week summer session of students in the Nursing Curriculum.

Aqualator Keeps Crystal Lake Water Moving And Germ-Free

The newly installed machine designed to keep water circulating through the Crystal Lake swimming area is apparently doing the job for which it was intended, according to John B. Penney, commissioner of recreation for the city.

Study of the machine's effectiveness in preventing an accumulation of bacteria will continue all summer, but early results appear to be promising, Penney reports.

The machine is a Besley-Welles Aqualator, which consists of a specially designed propeller powered by a 10-horsepower submersible electric motor. The unit is installed at one end of the swimming area.

Tests have been made with dye marker to determine current flow. The dye is carried completely through the swimming area in about six minutes. Further tests indicate that the water pushed through the main current area by the machine is replaced by water from other parts of the lake, thus indicating a turnover of water. The machine is designed to move 650,000 gallons an hour and should turn over the water in the swimming area completely every 10 hours or less.

The only noticeable effect to the swimmers is the noise of the motor when swimming under water and a fairly strong current in that part of the swimming area next to the Aqualator.

In addition to the installation, one treatment of copper sulphate to reduce the green algae in the lake has been made, and other treatments will follow. Members of the lifeguard staff and users of the lake have noticed that the water is becoming increasingly clear since the treatment and installation of the aqualator. Mr. Penney reports that the chlorination equipment will be installed next week, but he anticipates that it will only have to be used during a prolonged hot spell.

The whole program of lake reclamation is under the direction of Jason Cortell, a qualified biologist who has been hired by the City of Newton for this project. A close watch on the bacteria count at the lake is being maintained by Mr. Cortell and the Public Health Department of the City of Newton.

ing, Dr. Hoskins received a letter of commendation from the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Research and Development.

He also received an inscribed plaque containing the Navy shield in appreciation of his 15 years of outstanding service as a medical and biological consultant to the Office of Naval Research.

The awards were presented by Dr. F. Joachim Weyl, Deputy and Chief Scientist, Office of Naval Research, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Hoskins had been honored three years ago with the Navy Superior Civilian Service Award, the second highest honorary Navy civilian award.

Your influence has also been strong in the medical field which deals with those hazards arising from the use of the latest weapons of war."

"For fifteen years you have lighted a path toward resolution of Navy problems concerning human engineering in advanced weapons environments. Your biological, endocrinological, and psychophysiological knowledge of the human brain has helped immeasurably to integrate thinking man with the sophisticated machines of modern naval warfare."

"The service you have rendered to the Navy and the United States should give you great satisfaction, knowing that it has contributed substantially to your country's welfare. Let me wish you happiness in the knowledge that your career has been of basic importance to humanity."

Farlow instructors who accompanied them were Marilyn Murphy and Carol Cox.

The youngsters on the trip were: Robert and Dennis Dawes, Kevin and Karen Boyd, Mary Lou, Elizabeth and Jane Corrigan, Candace and Constance Edwards, Bunny Muse, Carol and Ethel Boyd, Paul Shannon, Gail Manning, Jineen Pasquarosa and Kenneth Murphy.

MRS. IRVING URETSKY

Mrs. Uretsky Chairman For Donor Lunch

Mrs. Irving Uretsky of Chestnut Hill has been appointed chairman of Boston Hadassah's 37th annual donor luncheon on Dec. 2 and 3 at the Hotel Statler-Hilton.

Appointed by Mrs. Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., president of the 8,500-member chapter, the new head of Hadassah's major annual event will be responsible for raising one of the largest quotas set in this area for an individual women's organization.

The two-day luncheon benefits the medical work at the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center in Jerusalem which includes the 500-bed teaching hospital; the medical and nursing schools; the research laboratories; and the outpatient clinics handling more than a quarter of a million visits annually.

Mrs. Uretsky has served Hadassah as chairman of vocational education and as vice-president of the chapter. She is a former Grand Marshal of the Greater Boston Women's Division of Bonds for Israel and a member of the board of the Women's Division of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies.

Working with Mrs. Uretsky on the campaign is a committee of more than 150 chairmen of various departments and 300 hostesses.

Estate

Prior to the Kaufman Act, an individual was legally helpless to avoid this cost. Despite the expressed wishes of the deceased to the contrary, his widow and children or others in whom he was primarily interested, were required to pay the charges of the court appointed "guardian ad litem" in such cases.

Attorney Kaufman first introduced the measure in December 1958 but it encountered vigorous opposition. Rejected by previous sessions of the legislature, the Kaufman law was finally passed this year, with the blessing of the Judicial Council of Massachusetts. The Bar Journal article is entitled "Untrammeling the Testator."

Mr. Kaufman is engaged in the general practice of law in Boston. He also teaches a course in the Legal Aspects of Business at Northeastern University.

He is a graduate of Boston University and the Harvard Law School and holds a Master's degree from Columbia. He is married to the former Zelda Menish and they have two sons, David and Roger.

While a member of the Board of Aldermen, he served on the Franchises and Licenses, Street Traffic and Education Committees.

In addition, he was chairman of the Building Committee for a four-year period, during which the South High School, Warren Junior High addition and several elementary school additions were built.

Endicott Peabody is likable, personable, well-intended, completely honest and a man of high motives. His troubles stem largely from inexperience in government and his refusal or failure to heed the advice and counsel of persons who are experienced in government.

Dumaine is an able, hard-headed businessman who did an excellent job while serving as president of the New Haven Railroad. If he hadn't been maneuvered out of that position and were still running the road, it might not be in bankruptcy today.

But the hard, unchallenged fact is that Peabody and Dumaine are both novices in politics.

Peabody's experience in public office prior to winning the Government consisted of two years in the Executive Council, a body he himself claims serves no useful purpose and should be abolished.

Dumaine as far as this observer is aware had no practical political experience whatever before a majority of the Republican State Committee members elected him their chairman over the opposition of such party leaders as Attorney General Edward W. Brooke, Senator Everett Saltonstall and ex-Governor John A. Volpe.

What is most disturbing about Dumaine to liberal-thinking Republicans is the ultra-conservative brand of political philosophy he preaches.

Possibly, a majority of Republicans in Massachusetts agree with Dumaine's philosophy. Perhaps those committee members who jump to his defense are right and Brooke, Saltonstall and Volpe are wrong.

This is something that will be decided by the Republican voters themselves because most of the committee members who backed Dumaine will find candidates entered against them in the Presidential primary next April.

Dumaine and his political philosophy will be an issue in the committee contests which will be waged as a prelude to a fight next May to oust Dumaine from the chairmanship.

It may come as a surprise to some committee members, including one articulate woman member, but several prominent Republicans, who have made real contributions to the GOP, declare privately that they will quit the Republican party if it adopts Dumaine's philosophy.

That is not intended as an attack upon Dumaine. It is simply a statement of the thinking of some Republicans of considerably more political stature than either Dumaine or any of the committee members who elected him.

As far as Governor Peabody is concerned, his political problems are at least partly of his own making.

In fairness to Peabody, it was to be expected that it would take him some time to adjust himself to the duties and responsibilities of Governor and to get his feet on the ground.

With more than a fourth of his term behind him, however, Peabody is still floundering around.

In mid-summer he hasn't yet submitted all his messages to the Legislature which is being criticized in some quarters for dragging out its session. No matter what the law-makers may desire to do, they obviously can't act on Peabody's messages until they get them.

Peabody's big triumph so far this year was in obtaining initial approval by the Legislature of a proposed amendment to the Constitution which would give a Governor increased powers to reorganize the

Differing Opinion

Editor
 The Newton Graphic
 Dear Sir:

I read with interest the article "24 Local Clergymen Favor Supreme Court Prayer Ban" in the July 18 issue of the Graphic. As a local clergyman I would like to register a "minority opinion" disagreeing with the statement set forth.

I agree that the enforcement of any specific religious teaching is not the legitimate function of the State, but I raise a question whether our forefathers intended that our public life should be neutralized with reference to religious observances. Religious observance has been so much a part of the traditional history of our country that to disregard it by attempting a neutral stance is not being very realistic.

I further agree that the time for Protestant priority in public religious observance has passed. But would it not be more in keeping with our pluralism to add other religious viewpoints rather than eliminating all religious reference? For example, would it not be more in our tradition to have not only Protestant, but also Roman Catholic and Jewish observances used and explained in our public school teaching? It seems to me that our children could be taught a respect for various viewpoints rather than be met with silence on such an important area of their life. The public school teacher is an important authority in a child's life; for him to be neutral on religious teaching may be interpreted wrongly by learning minds. The neutral point of view is more likely to result, in spite of what the church and home will try to do, in a neutral position on religious conviction.

I agree that the rights of minorities must be adequately protected in religious as well as other matters. But are such rights best protected when no mention is made of religious convictions. Are we so intolerant of each other that we cannot examine each others religious convictions without getting into difficulty? Our history and our traditions reveal that we can get along in public life not by neutrality in religious convictions, but by a healthy respect born of an adequate knowledge of our neighbors convictions.

Frank M. Weiskel

Praises Editorial

The Editor,
 The Newton Graphic,
 Dear Sir:

Just a brief note to tell you how much we here at the Registry appreciate the provocative and informative editorial on highway safety which appeared in your paper on July 4th.

As you say in your editorial, "Public cooperation is the final solution."

It is so gratifying to me to know that cooperation is available from the Newton Graphic.

Again, many thanks and very truly yours,
 James R. Lawton,
 Registrar.

proached on the matter by a constituent.

The constituent told the Solon he had been promised a judgeship but wouldn't get it unless the Senator voted for the constitutional amendment. So the Senator obligingly changed his position and recorded himself for the amendment.

There are some purists, of course, who think that is not the way to accomplish a giant step toward "honest, decent and effective State government in Massachusetts."

It's also a rather curious method for deciding whether or not a man is qualified to serve as a judge.

For the record it should be noted that Republican as well as Democratic legislators accepted patronage favors from the Governor's office in return for their votes on the reorganization measure.

So there may be no misunderstanding, the patronage-dispensing was done by Peabody's legislative agents and not by the Governor himself.

Indeed, Peabody might very well state that he knows nothing about any jobs and favors being parcelled out by his office in return for votes.

But he is supposed to know what goes on in his own office. However, let's not quibble over trivialities in a fight for honest, decent and effective government.

Besides, Peabody declared that "by strengthening the organizational structure of the government and pinpointing responsibility, we can see to it that corruption and wrongdoing are ended once and for all in Massachusetts."

That, of course, still leaves unanswered the question of why Peabody doesn't submit a reorganization plan NOW to the Legislature which would strengthen the organizational structure of the government, pinpoint responsibility and wipe out corruption and wrongdoing.

Why should we wait until

Local Groups, Including Newton's, Lauded For Polio Program Work

Newton's City Polio Immunization Committee did "a splendid job in organizing the volunteer crews of nurses, parents and teachers who staffed clinics in the recently completed Sabin vaccine campaign," it was pointed out in a joint statement issued by Dr. Alfred L. Frechette, state commissioner of Public Health, and Dr. Nicholas J. Fiumara, director of that department's division of communicable diseases.

Said the commissioner: "Polio may well become just another rare disease in Massachusetts."

Dr. Frechette added that the state's investment of $447,264 in the Sabin sip program "will provide insurance against many polio cases, deaths, and untold suffering to victims and their families."

"The year 1963 could have been an epidemic year," the commissioner concluded, "if the usual cyclical pattern of this disease had not been changed by use of the vaccine. To date there is one reported case of polio in Massachusetts of a three-year-old child who had not received Salk or Sabin immunization."

Dr. Fiumara included local boards of health in the many groups that helped assure success of this year's preventative campaign.

"Residents who have taken the three Sabin drinks now have a twofold benefit of serologic and intestinal immunity," Dr. Fiumara said. "The former protects the individual against polio itself, the latter against his being a disease carrier."

From now on the department will concentrate on school children new to the

"MEMOS" FROM YOUR Stylist

MR. JOHN OF CONTINENTAL

Adroit enlarging of eyes isn't quite as difficult a feat as you might imagine. To begin, use black eyeliner and extend your black eyeliner a bare fraction of an inch - in a straight line - beyond the natural edge of your top eyelid. Switching now to charcoal gray eyeliner, start barely inside the outer corner of the lower lid and form a line outward until it meets the black line to form a triangle.

The advantage of using charcoal gray for the lower line lies in the softening effect it generally provides.

There are advantages of another nature in trusting hair care to CONTINENTAL COIFFEURS. Our operators and stylists have both the training and experience to turn out consistently fine work. Be it a permanent or high-fashion styling, you are assured of satisfaction at CONTINENTAL COIFFEURS - 2 locations for your convenience - 74 Langley Rd., Newton Centre, Phone WO 9-8317, and 1271 Washington St., West Newton, Phone LA 7-9829.

Summer Wedding Unites Miss Caruso - Mr. Stuart

Two rings were exchanged at the recent marriage of Miss Isabel Ann Caruso to Douglas Leard Stuart.

Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Caruso of 78 Upham street, West Newton, and Mr. George P. Stuart Sr., of Waltham are the couples parents.

The Rt. Rev. Bernard S. O'Kane officiated at the 3 o'clock afternoon ceremony which took place at St. Bernard's Church in West Newton. The Monticello in Framingham was the setting for the reception.

Escorted by her father, the bride's delustered satin gown was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, elbow-length sleeves and a detachable train marked with appliques of jeweled Alencon lace.

A bouffant fingertip illusion veil was caught to a becoming jeweled headpiece. She carried her prayer book topped with white orchids.

Miss Ellen Kincaid of Columbus, Ohio, was maid of honor. She wore a pink sheath dress and carried a corsage of pink carnations with red roses.

Tom Maxwell of La Canada, Calif., brother of the bride, served as best man.

The bride attended Stephen's College and was graduated from Nason College in Springfield, Me.

Mr. MacCalden was graduated with honors from Worcester Polytechnic Institute in Worcester.

THE LENNON SISTERS
Peggy, 21, Kathy, 19, and Janet, 16, have been celebrities since they first appeared on Welk program, Christmas Eve, 1955. Those who know the girls, however, when asked how much effect fame, big money, and the pressure of show business has had on the trio, give substantially the same answer: "None."
The amount of time the Lennons spend being seen in the right places and making the right contacts is exactly
zo. For them, the right place is home; the right contacts are their family and young people with similar interests—swimming, baseball, football, dancing. As participants, not spectators.

YOUNG ACTRESS IS MORE THAN WILLING TO MASK BEAUTY—IF ROLE IS MEATY ENOUGH

For a plum TV role, actress Jana Taylor has no qualms about hiding her light—in this case, her beauty—under a bushel basket.

To followers of ABC-TV's "General Hospital" serial drama the 19-year-old brunette was only "the face behind the bandages" during opening weeks of the serial in which she is featured as Angie Costello, an auto accident victim.

When Dr. Steve Hardy, portrayed by star John Beradino, removed the gauze cocoon, Jana was decked out in an unlovely array of cosmetic facial scars.

"I prefer heavy dramatic roles in which I can feel a wide range of emotions through the character, says Pana, whose film credits include "Judgment at Nuremberg" and "Cold Wind in August."

"You can learn a lot about life playing a multi-faceted role like that of Angie. It's sort of like taking a philosophy course."

For her "General Hospital" characterization, Jana has already run the acting gamut from mirror-smashing hysteria to the onset of alcoholism.

To bring it off, Jana approaches the unfamiliar with a combination of imagination, and study.

Peabody Home Lease Is Up To City Aldermen

If the Board of Aldermen approves the project next month, some 50 Newton youngsters, some mentally retarded, others with emotional problems, will go to school at the Peabody Home this coming September.

Before the city can lease the property on Brookline St., Newton Centre, it must have the Aldermen's approval.

The lease would be for 20 years, at the end of which the home would become city property.

Plans for the school are going ahead under the school department's Division of Pupil Personnel Services and Special Education, which is headed by Asst. Supt. of Schools Edward Landy.

"off-limits" for such voluntary recitation of the Bible as was provided for in Pennsylvania law which requires: "at least ten verses from the Holy Bible shall be read without comment at the opening of each public school on each school day. Any child shall be excused from such Bible reading, upon the written request of his parent or guardian?"

"The words 'establishment of religion' were always historical," understood to mean the setting up of one religious faith, or sect, as the State Church, whether this faith was Episcopal, Roman Catholic, Lutheran, Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, or some other. (Cf. Constitution of the United States: Its Sources and Application, by T. J. Norton, pp. 197-98).

"The reading of the Bible, on a voluntary basis, (in whatever version, and either Old or New Testament) as provided by one of the 50 sovereign States, could not possibly be proven, in our judgment, to 'establish' one denomination as the State Religion, such as, for example, the Church of England clearly was thus 'established' in England when the First Amendment was adopted on December 15, 1791.

"We therefore conclude that the Supreme Court made a 'wrong' decision, with regard to these two States involved, for four reasons: (1) These State laws were not the same as Congress making any 'law' in regard to 'an establishment of religion'; (2) These State laws did not by any means effect such 'an establishment of religion' in their States; but even if they had done so, such was not forbidden to them by the First Amendment, which applies only to 'Congress';

"(3) The effect of this ruling is to prohibit 'the free exercise" of religion, which is contrary to the First Amendment; and (4) The U. S. Constitution, Article III, Section 2, seems to imply that the Supreme Court was very possibly never even given jurisdiction, in the first place, to decide such cases as arise between a State and citizens of the same State. As you read this section of the Constitution over again for yourself, what is your conclusion in this regard?

"The Application of the Decision Are Wrong Applications. Though we do not believe that it was, let us suppose, hypothetically, that the Supreme Court decision of June 17, was a proper one in all respects. Would the present applications of it at both State and local level be correct? We do not believe that they would. We believe, for example, that the U. S. News & World Report of July 1, 1963, page 41, in their article entitled "ABC'S ON PRAYERS IN SCHOOLS" was in error when it answered "yes" to the question: "Does this mean, then, that conducted religious exercises now are outlawed in all public schools in the 50 States?"

"Let us quote one of the most able Constitutional lawyers in the United States today, Dean Clarence Manion (former Dean of the Law School of Notre Dame University) in a letter dated June 28, 1963, to a resident of Newton, Massachusetts, when he was asked for an opinion on this specific question: Mr. Manion wrote: "A Supreme Court decision decides the case before it. It does NOT write the 'law of the land.' Congress must do that. However, a decided case serves notice upon everybody that a similar case will be decided the same way IF AND WHEN it is appealed to the Supreme Court." (Emphasis added).

"Another eminent authority, the Honorable Samuel B. Pettengill, in Christian Economics of recent date, "A decision by the United States Supreme Court on a Constitutional question, is not only the 'supreme law of the land'; it is not any kind of law! This is because a court has no authority to make law, or amend the Constitution. Its judgment, whether right or wrong is, of course, binding on the litigants in the case, unless reversed on appeal. But it is not binding on other persons . . .

"In view of this sound interpretation of Constitutional law by these two men who are recognized authorities in the field, what basis did the U. S. News have for affirming that Bible reading was outlawed in all of the 50 States? What basis did the Boston Globe have for its headlines on Monday, June 17, 1963, "COURT OUTLAW'S BIBLE READING IN SCHOOLS"? and "State Law Voided"? (page 1).

"What was the justification for the Boston Herald's carrying the headlines on Tuesday, June 18, 1963 (page 1): "State Acts on High Court Ruling, Outlaws School Bible Readings, Lord's Prayer Also in Ban"? This story began: "Massachusetts last night moved to scrap its law requiring daily reading of part of the Bible in public schools after the U. S. Supreme Court ruled such a practice unconstitutional. The State Department of Education will direct local school authorities to halt Bible reading. . . .

"In the first place, the Supreme Court passed on practices in ONLY the two States of Maryland and Pennsylvania, and NOT for those in Massachusetts, or in other States at all, until someone appeals a case to the Supreme Court from one of such States, and the Court rules against the State Law which covers the subject!

"In the second place, "The State Department of Education" is NOT the body that Massachusetts looks to in order to amend or alter existing State Law, but to the State Legislature! To our knowledge, the State Legislature has NOT, as of the date of writing, acted to amend our statute on Bible reading.

"And until one or the other of the above-mentioned actions takes place, we believe that neither the Massachusetts Department of Education, nor the Governor, nor the Attorney General, nor any local school board, nor the superintendents, nor the principals, nor the teachers, nor the pupils have any just legal or moral grounds for failure to obey the General Laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in this . . .

"One way to make changes in, or corrections of, the General Laws of Massachusetts, is provided in Chapter 3, Sections 52-53, of the Tercenary Edition (1932) of these General Laws, that is, by having counsel submit to the GENERAL COURT (i.e. the House and Senate of the State) "such proposed changes and corrections in the general statute as they deem necessary."

"Until this is done, or some other proper legal steps are undertaken to accomplish the same thing, it would appear to us that our Massachusetts General Law Chapter 71, Section 31, page 861, STILL EXISTS, is binding and MUST BE OBEYED!

"It reads: 'A portion of the Bible shall be read daily in the public schools, without written note or oral comment; but a pupil whose parent or guardian informs the teacher in writing that he has conscientious scruples against it, shall not be required to read from any particular version, or to take any personal part in reading. The school committee shall not purchase or use in the public schools school books favoring the tenets of any particular religious sect.'

"With this statute we are in complete accord. We likewise
